

REFERENDUM FOR IRISH BILL, BALFOUR PLEA

Home Rule Plan Called Experiment in Federalism of Most Impossible, Unexampled and Preposterous Character

ONE COURSE DEFINED

Speaker Declares Government Can Ask People of Country if They Want Measure Passed Under Parliament Act

LONDON—In the absence of Sir Edward Carson in Belfast, Mr. Balfour addressed a great demonstration of Ulster Unionists in support of Ulster's opposition to home rule last night at Aberdeen. The measure, he declared, was an experiment in federalism of the most impossible, unexampled and preposterous character; the bill being predestined to failure.

Like Bonar Law Mr. Balfour declared there was but one course for the government to pursue before delivering things to the utmost extremity, namely, to ask the people of this country whether they really wished this measure passed under a Parliament act. Going still further, Mr. Balfour asked why they did not try a referendum which would not endanger the government nor change the Radical majority.

TALKING BIRD NOT CALLED POLLY, YET KNOWN AS A "JAW"

Looks Like a Crow, Talks Malay, Is Shy Among Strangers, Occasionally Is Reticent

While the British steamer Kansas, Capt. Robert Linklater, was coming up the harbor today laden with oriental products, tugboat crews and customs officers aboard the government boarding boat Winnisimmet stopped work to listen to the low yet perfectly distinct jabbering of what sounded like an argument in Malay. Vessels from China and Japan nearly always have crews of Malays.

These men are usually silent, shrouded with the mystery of natives of the far east. Greatly surprised that officers of the steamer should allow such a breach of discipline as an argument, sailors and skippers turned toward the bridge, but Captain Linklater seemed intent on navigating his vessel. When the officers were aboard the steamer Captain Linklater told of a strange "talking bird" that formed part of their cargo. He showed the officers and ship news reporters the bird, but at sight of these strangers the bird ceased "talking" and could not be coaxed to give forth another sound. Officers of the steamer, however, say that the bird carries on conversation with the Malays on board.

The bird, a bluish black color, with a reddish yellow bill, and of about the size and appearance of a crow, is assigned to C. F. Hayes, of 26 Broadway, New York, to which port the steamer goes from here. It was put aboard the ship at Singapore, and is said to be of a very rare species, found in the jungles of the Malay Peninsula. It has two bright red wattles on each side of its bill. Natives call it a "jaw."

MILK CONFERENCE IS ANNOUNCED BY THEODORE N. VAIL

Producers, Distributors and Consumers Are Invited to Cooperate in Betterment

Conference of the producers, distributors, and consumers of milk has been called for Thursday at 10 o'clock by the committee on agriculture of the Boston Chamber of Commerce through a letter of invitation sent out by Theodore N. Vail, chairman of the committee. It is desirous of drafting legislation for the control and protection of the milk supply that will be agreeable to all interested parties and conclude the present agitation.

The establishment of milk as a pure and cheap food is one of the main purposes that Mr. Vail says prompts the calling of the conference. The production of milk in this state at a fair profit to the one who owns the cows is another object that is recognized as important.

WOMEN'S CITY CLUB ANNOUNCES ARRANGEMENTS FOR DINNER

Escort Guests to Be Admitted by Vote of the Executive Committee—Club Men and Heads of Organizations in Which Members Are Interested to Speak

Final arrangements for the dinner of the Women's City Club to be given at the Somerset next Monday evening were made by the executive committee at a meeting held last night at 20 Charlesgate West. It was voted to allow each member to invite an escort who will be admitted at the regular price of the dinner.

Speakers of the evening will be Geoffrey B. Lehy, first president of the Boston City Club; Samuel J. Elder, president of the Boston City Club; presidents of different organizations in which women are interested, including Mrs. T. J. Bowker of the Women's Municipal League; Mrs. May Alden Ward, president of the New England Women's Clubs; Miss Emily T. Balch, president of the Women's Trade League; Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, dean of Simmons College;

Miss Mary Schenk Woolman, president of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union; Miss Helen Cleaves of the Teachers' Club; Miss Louise Earl of the College Club; Miss Mary Wiggins of the Consumers' League; Mrs. Julius Andrews, president of the Council of Jewish Women; and Miss Josephine A. Bruntton, representing the Women's City Club.

Ushers for the evening will be Mrs. Bertha Cushing Child, Miss May Alden Thayer, Mrs. Meyer Bloomfield, Miss Alice Grady, Mrs. Marcie L. Park, Miss K. E. Coakley, Miss M. E. Murray, Mrs. Y. T. Goodwin, Mrs. R. LeRoy Harlow, Mrs. Minnie K. Morton, Mrs. Florence E. Shaal, Miss F. Lisbie Wharf, Mrs. Sidney Dreyfus, Mrs. T. K. Cory, Miss Katherine B. Lahey, Miss Alice Harlow, Mrs. Florence L. Terry, Mrs. Charles W. Willis, Mrs. Margaret T. Langtry and Mrs. Katherine T. Hodges.

HARVARD CHOIR PLANS TO GIVE RECITALS

Harvard choir—Back row from left to right—W. J. Bingham, W. E. Alderman, J. H. Howe, W. L. Robinson '10, A. Coolidge, A. F. Pickern '11, Dr. A. T. Davidson, L. de J. Harvard, M. S. Mattuck, H. F. Burns. Second row—R. Stiles, W. L. Ustick, H. L. Ridenour, H. L. Knapp, T. W. Sweet, N. L. Tibbetts, K. W. Snyder. Front row—John Lee, H. R. Sanford, A. R. Simms, I. U. Townsend.

Harvard University has a large choir this year, its members chosen from many applicants. This choir is under the direction of Dr. A. T. Davidson of the music department. The choir sings in Appleton chapel each morning. This year the choir will give several recitals.

In December there will be a joint recital by the Harvard and Radcliffe choirs.

In years past the choirs at the chapel have been very successful. Every year there have been a large number of men seeking membership. Besides the pleasure and instruction that the men

L'ARBITERS RULE OUT COMPARING OF WAGE SCALES

Chairman Storrow Sustains Union's Objection to Testimony by Outside Roads

When the hearing of the Elevated Railway Company's controversy was resumed before the special board of arbitration today, James J. Storrow, the chairman, sustained the objection of John P. Feeney, counsel for the Boston Street Carriers' Union, to the introduction of testimony concerning the wage scale on roads outside of Massachusetts.

James L. Richards, representing the Boston Elevated Railway Company on the board, gave a dissenting opinion.

Mr. Richards said: "I am of the opinion that the compensation made by other street railways is one of the most important facts that this board should consider in determining the rate the Elevated should pay its employees."

Matthew C. Brush, second vice-president of the board, resumed his testimony. He said that the wage of 25 5-10 cents per hour paid by the company for the first year is higher than that paid by other companies in this state.

The rate paid by the Elevated company during the first three years is also higher. It is expected that a further ruling of the board will be made on the question of admission of evidence on a basis other than the 9 hours in 11, or the 9 hours in 12 work day which was in controversy yesterday. Attorney John P. Feeney for the union maintained that the Elevated should have its witnesses confine their testimony to the ruling made by the board yesterday.

Matthew C. Brush, second vice-president of the board, was the last witness called and he presented tables showing rates paid by various neighboring roads. The Bay State street railway, he said, paid its first year men from Oct. 1, 1912, to Oct. 1, 1913, 23 1/2 cents an hour and to second year men 24 cents.

C. M. L. TAKES UP MAYORALTY QUESTION TODAY

Advisory and Executive Committee to Get Together and Decide on Candidates to Be Recommended for Consideration

NEW MEN MENTIONED

The Citizens Municipal League mayoralty advisory committee will meet the executive committee of the league late today. It is understood that the reason for this meeting is to seek the latter's advice on how many recommendations, if more than one, the committee should make for consideration of the league in choosing a candidate for mayor.

At yesterday's meeting of the committee the name of Col. William A. Gaston was presented as a possible candidate that all factions could agree on. The plan was proposed by Col. Winthrop M. Merrill, who disclaimed any authority from Colonel Gaston, but did so on his own initiative.

It is said that Councilor Ballantine yesterday refused to be a candidate opposed to President Thomas J. Kenny. Congressman James M. Curley who has been waiting the definite action of Mayor Fitzgerald is said to have announced himself a candidate and sent cards to his supporters, asking them to meet him at the Vine street church, Wednesday, Nov. 5, and sign his papers, which he will take out Wednesday morning.

Friends of Congressman Andrew J. Peters met in Young's hotel yesterday and formed an organization called the Peters Campaign Club. Robert Homans was elected temporary chairman and Bert E. Holland temporary secretary.

BROOKLINE GIRLS' CLUB TO START YEAR'S ACTIVITY

The first meeting of the year of the girls' club of the Brookline Friendly Society will be held tonight, when plans will be made for classes in millinery, dancing, cooking, sewing and crafts, if possible. One of the innovations of the work is the opening of the boys' club room on Sunday afternoon for games and fireside story telling.

MEXICO REPORT OF ULTIMATUM IS NOW DENIED

Secretary Bryan Declares General Huerta Not Ordered to Quit Office—Mr. O'Shaughnessy Also Knows Nothing of It

STATEMENTS ISSUED

WASHINGTON—Secretary Bryan this afternoon gave out a statement denying that any ultimatum had been sent to Provisional President Huerta. The Associated Press in a despatch from Mexico City declared that President Wilson had demanded General Huerta's resignation. Mr. Bryan said: "No ultimatum has been sent to Mexico and it is unfortunate that the press should give credence to such a report. The harm done by speculation or even inaccuracies with regard to do-

MUSEUM GETS ART COLLECTION FROM FAR EAST

Rare Articles Secured by Dr. Denman W. Ross in China, Persia and Japan Are to Be Shown in Boston

SCULPTURE UNIQUE

Red Stone of Fourth Century. Designs of Ninth From India and Java, Paintings and Drawings Form Features in List

One striking feature of the Chinese, Persian and Japanese collections made by Dr. Denman W. Ross during the past year in Asia and Europe, which is exhibited to the public to-morrow at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts is that of Indian and Persian drawings and paintings made in India. Dr. Ross says: "It compares favorably with the collection in Calcutta, though not so large."

"There are about 100 pieces in all, only a part of them being shown in this exhibit. The most important pieces of this special feature of the exhibit are two pages from an ancient book discovered by Dr. George Martin and sold page by page. So far as is known there is no other exhibit of equal size and value of this nature in the country."

In the collection of textiles shown, the most important piece is a printed silk from Ruge which contains inscriptions not yet deciphered. The textiles date back to the eleventh and twelfth centuries and earlier. Many of them are Persian, and many of them came from excavations made in Egypt.

Books of early design and date illustrating the style of paper used in the twelfth century and those following, the ink, type, spacing of letters, words and lines and the setting on the page illuminated by the monks of France and Italy make an interesting part of the collection. One page from a choral book is a very rare specimen of illumination.

Perhaps the articles of the earliest date in the exhibit are the terra cottas from China. Chinese paintings of the Tang dynasty in the seventh or eighth century and others of a later period, and types of Japanese painting, including a series of early Japanese copies made from the painting of Riku shin-shu of the Sung dynasty, form a valuable addition to the already large collection in the museum.

An Indian sculpture in red stone of the fourth century Dr. Ross considers very valuable, as no sculpture can be taken from the country without permission from the government, which he obtained. The same rules applied to Java, from which Dr. Ross has obtained another interesting piece of sculpture of the ninth century. He ranks it third in importance of the entire collection. It is the only piece in the museum and probably the only one it will ever be possible to procure.

There are Indian bronzes of early date. Siamese bronzes of the thirteenth century and a few samples of Japanese bronze. The stone head from Angkor in Cambodia of ninth or tenth century is fourth in importance of the recent acquisition, the first being the Chinese idol of Kouan Yin given by Dr. Ross to the museum some time ago, and the second a stone relief of the second century of the Han period, which will be exhibited in the corridor of bronzes before the close of the present exhibition.

Wood carvings and pottery from Japan and samples of the latest phase of Chinese porcelain of the period of Yung Cheng in the eighteenth century, Chinese porcelain of the seventeenth century of the period of Kang Hsi and earlier from Korea, and jewelry from India and China of both ancient and modern styles complete a collection the importance of which to students cannot be estimated.

W. C. T. U. HEAD REELECTED FOR FIFTEENTH TIME

Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens of Portland, Me., Unanimously Made President of National Body

ASBURY PARK, N. J.—For the fifteenth time Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens of Portland, Me., today was unanimously re-elected President of the National W. C. T. U. in session here. The other general officers who also were rechosen are:

Vice-president-at-large, Miss Anna A. Gordon, Evanston, Ill.; corresponding secretary, Miss Frances P. Parks, Evanston, Ill.; recording secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Preston Anderson, Jamestown, N. D.; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. Sara H. Hoge, Lincoln, Va.; treasurer, Mrs. Elizabeth Hutchinson, Evanston, Ill.

The voting strength of the convention was reported by the credentials committee to be 708. The next largest convention was that held at Nashville, Tenn., in 1907, when 601 delegates were present. The national day of prayer observed by the union has been changed Monday from Jan. 1 to Jan. 15.

Mrs. Lillian M. Stevens, national president, Monday issued a proclamation calling for a national crusade throughout the world.

TRAFFIC MANAGER TO TAKE UP WORK

WILLIAM H. DAY, JR.
After Thursday expert will begin duties with Lynn Chamber of Commerce

To discuss transportation questions with experienced traffic handlers, William H. Day, Jr., who this week takes up his new duties as traffic manager of the new Lynn Chamber of Commerce, conferred today with David O. Ives, transportation expert, at the Boston Chamber of Commerce. After Thursday of this week Mr. Day, who resides in Marblehead, will devote his entire time to the work of the Lynn organization.

Mr. Day has been for the past three years chief clerk at the local offices of the Boston & Maine railroad. He is affiliated with the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and the United American Mechanics.

BALLOTS ALL DISTRIBUTED WITHIN HOUR

Election Commissioners Send Out 134,000 Blanks to the 225 Precincts of the City With Practically No Hitch

VOTERS TOTAL 109,260

Practically without a hitch 134,000 ballots were sent out from the election commissioners' office at 100 Summer street early today to the 225 precincts in the city in less than an hour. More than 120 carriages and automobiles in charge of 218 policemen were commissioned for the work. Lined along the streets in the vicinity of the office the carriages and automobiles began to leave at 4:12 a. m. Their work was finished at 5:02 a. m.

John M. Minton, chairman of the board of election commissioners, supervised the work.

Altogether there are 109,260 registered voters in the city. Of these the largest number is in ward 20, which has 12,270. Ward 7 has the smallest number—1346. While the carriages were being dispatched the ballots were guarded by a detail of 11 patrolmen in command of Sergeants H. W. Berry and Walter H. Horton.

DUBLIN STRIKERS PICKETING WHERE WORKERS RETURN

LONDON—The situation in Dublin remains practically unchanged, except that on the advice of the leaders the strikers have commenced picketing the premises where work has been resumed. Meanwhile the seventh ship carrying food and supplies for Dublin will start this week, another to follow next week.

MR. BIRD CARRIES NORWELL, FIRST TOWN REPORTING

Progressive Candidate Increases Total of Last Year, in Plymouth County Municipality—Mr. Gardner Runs Second

GOOD TOTAL EXPECTED

Reports From Some Populous Sections of Eastern Part of State Show That Number Is as Great as in 1912

Returns complete for Governor at Norwell, Mass., give Bird, Progressive 93; Gardner, Republican 71; Walsh, Democrat 57; Foss, Independent 26. For Lieutenant Governor, Goetting, Republican, ran ahead of his running mate, getting 92; Cosgrove, Progressive got 82; and Barry, Democrat 56.

Mashpee gives Gardner, Republican 32; Walsh, Democrat 12; Bird, Progressive, 9; Foss, Independent 3. Last year's vote was Republican 36, Democrats 6, Progressives 3. Vote for Lieutenant Governor: Barry, Democrat 9; Cosgrove, Progressive 5; Goetting, Republican 38.

Brisk voting throughout the morning hours at the polls reinforced by many votes at noon indicated that the total ballot cast in the state election today would be heavy. The active interest is laid to the campaigns waged by four of the seven candidates for gubernatorial honors.

Although it is not a presidential year, the vote is predicted to be about equal to that of last year, when the opportunity to vote for chief executive was the inducement.

Herman Hornel, chairman of the Republican city committee, this afternoon said that he had heard from most of the sections of Boston and found that a heavy vote was being polled. He said he would not be surprised if it ran as high as it did at the presidential election last year.

Reports at the Democratic state committee this afternoon were to the effect that a large vote was coming out almost everywhere.

At the Republican state headquarters Chairman Charles E. Hatfield said he had heard but from few places but from reports received the vote was unusually large for an "off" year. By "off" year he meant a year in which there was no presidential, or general congressional election. He said that in his own city of Newton a big vote had been polled up to noon.

Balloting was strong in the Republican precincts of the Back Bay, Boston, early today. In ward 10, precinct 9, at 8:30 a. m. 225 had voted, last year at this time, 180; precinct 7, ward 10, 200, same number last year; precinct 8, ward 10, 186 against 200 in 1912.

In ward 10, precinct 4, the vote at 9:15 was 103 against 85 last year; precinct 5, ward 10, 68 against 60 last year; precinct 6, ward 10, 110 against 90. In ward 11, precinct 7, 90 votes were cast at 9:15 a. m., which is slightly heavier than last year.

In ward 11, precinct 8, at 9:30 o'clock, 136 ballots had been recorded. It was said that this year's vote was somewhat heavier than was that of 1912.

The vote cast at the precinct 3 polling place of ward 10 was well split up among the three leading parties at 9:30 o'clock this morning. At that hour 112 ballots had been cast, about the same vote as was cast last year at the same time.

In ward 11, precinct 5, at 9:45, 175 votes were cast, which is a slightly (Continued on page five, column five)

FIRST FIGURES FROM ELECTION

NEW BEDFORD, Mass.—The first election returns in the state today came from precinct B, ward 2, New Bedford, and showed a Democratic gain over last year. A ballot box was broken open inadvertently and the votes were counted, showing Walsh, Democrat, had 72 votes; Gardner, Republican, 62; Bird, Progressive 60; Foss, Independent, 2.

Organization of New Province Is Proposed to Turkey

RUSSIA URGES REFORM STEP FOR ARMENIA

M. Sazonoff Said to Be Ready to Oppose Porte Revenue Plans Unless It Takes Action to Improve Conditions in Asia Minor

APPROVAL BY POWERS

(Special correspondence of the Monitor)
LONDON—In announcing the fact that M. Sazonoff, the Russian foreign minister who is on a visit to Paris, was the guest at a banquet given by the French minister for foreign affairs at the Quai d'Orsay which was attended by M. Isvolsky, M. Barthou and M. Delcasse, the Times correspondent makes an interesting statement with regard to Russia and Armenia.

He says that Russia, with the support of Great Britain and France, has been negotiating with Turkey for the organization of the six Armenian vilayets into a province with an orderly administration. This demand was essentially based upon the proposals which were made by Turkey herself in 1895 in response to the representations of the powers.

In deference to present Turkish and other criticisms, however, Russia has agreed to the organization of the Armenian vilayets into two provinces, with the essential condition that their administration shall be subject to international control. He further states that he "as reason to believe that, in particular, the assent of the German government has been secured for this proposal, and when M. Sazonoff pays his visit to the German chancellor shortly, in Berlin, it will not be for the purpose of negotiating on this subject, but rather in order to confirm, by personal interview with Herr von Bethmann Hollweg, the friendly understanding which has been established with Germany on this point.

Russia, the correspondent affirms, is as strongly averse as are the other great powers from anything which would disturb tranquillity in Asiatic Turkey. But the Russian government feels strongly that the continuance of the present conditions in the Armenian vilayets would inevitably necessitate her intervention. Russia has no desire whatever to extend her sway in that direction, which, apart from all other complications, would entail upon her very heavy and perilous burdens. She might almost be said to dread such developments.

It may be regarded as certain, concludes the Times, that the Russian consent will not be given to the Turkish proposals for increasing the Ottoman revenue by means of a customs surtax until her proposals for administrative reform in Armenia are accepted by Turkey. It is believed that France will cooperate in this matter, and that these reforms will form one of the imperative conditions of the proposed Turkish loan.

RAILWAYS HELP SOUTH AUSTRALIA LAND SETTLEMENT

(Special to the Monitor)
ADELAIDE, South Australia—At no time in the history of South Australia has the policy of opening up the country for settlement been more actively pursued than during the past few years. The carrying out of this policy has involved the construction of a number of new railways and the result has been that thousands of acres of scrub lands have been transformed into well cultivated areas.

During the last session of Parliament the construction of several additional developmental railways, aggregating a length of 500 miles and for the most part designed to serve crown lands east of the River Murray and on Eyre's peninsula, was authorized.

The additional length of lines opened during the 12 months ended June 30 last was 228 miles 24 chains and it is satisfactory to learn from the report of the railways commissioner that, notwithstanding the additional mileage opened, the revenue per train mile increased from $3,222, in 1911-12 to $4,090, for last financial year.

M. POINCARÉ PLANS FOR AFRICAN VISIT

(Special to the Monitor)
ALGIERS, North Africa—It is officially announced that President Poincaré intends to divide his visit to North Africa, planned to take place in the autumn of next year, into two sections. The first section will comprise Morocco and Oan and the second Tunisia and Constantine. M. Poincaré's voyage will be one of thorough inspection of French Northern Africa.

SPANISH ROYALTY MAY VISIT PARIS

(Special to the Monitor)
PARIS, France—The Temps states that it is probable that the King of Spain, accompanied by the Queen, will pay a visit to the French capital during the course of next month. The visit is rendered uncertain, however, since the state of political affairs in Spain may make it inadvisable for the King to absent himself immediately on the reassembly of the Cortes.

Steamship Imperator, which is to undergo repairs lying off the shore at Plymouth, England

NEW IMPERATOR BOILERS MAY BE RECONSTRUCTED

(Special to the Monitor)
BERLIN, Germany—Various reports have been circulated from time to time as to the proposed alterations to be made to the steamship Imperator of the Hamburg-American line. It was understood at one time that the boilers and furnaces would be so altered as to enable the vessel to use oil instead of coal for fuel.

It is possible that these alterations will still be made, although Herr Ballin, the managing director of the Hamburg-American line, did not say so definitely when questioned on the subject. He merely stated that it had been found necessary to thoroughly reconstruct the boilers, a task which will involve a very considerable cost.

This, he declared also, had resulted in some difference with the builders of the vessel, the Vulkan yard, who had given five years' guarantee as regards coal consumption and the speed contained in the contract.

RUSSIAN BUDGET SHOWS 450,000,000 ROUBLES RESERVE

(Special to the Monitor)
ST. PETERSBURG, Russia—The budget for 1914 gives further proof of the great ability of M. Kokovtsev in his management of the finance of the country.

M. Kokovtsev has been able to establish a reserve fund in which all unappropriated moneys are placed to be used at any time and for any requirement of the state. This fund has now reached the sum of 450,000,000 roubles. The use of this money to Russia is evident since, as M. Kokovtsev himself explained in the budget, Russia is saved from contracting loans in other countries on conditions disadvantageous to herself.

Another reason adduced by M. Kokovtsev is the present political position in Europe, in other words the necessity to be in readiness for any emergency. Russia is therefore, thanks to her finance minister, in a position of independence in regard to her foreign policy, and should her attitude of preparedness prove to have been unnecessary, she will have a fund to draw from for internal expenditure.

UNITY IN BRITISH LAND CAMPAIGN IS URGED ON PARTIES

(Special to the Monitor)
TUNBRIDGE WELLS, England—F. D. Acland, under secretary for foreign affairs, speaking at a meeting of the Tunbridge Wells Women's Liberal Society recently, said that he hoped that the land question would not become one of party politics, one party against the other, but that they would all agree, after full discussion, on some remedies and carry them through by common consent.

He felt bound to say, however, that this depended on the Unionist party being willing to drop those futile reforms that they had been putting before the people and taking up something which would be a great deal better than anything that had been attempted before.

Proceeding, Mr. Acland said that everything depended upon the Unionists being willing to join with them in a strong and drastic application of the reforms that were really necessary.

It was a mistake, in his opinion, to say that in all districts the landlord was a tyrant. Whilst, however, he was not guilty of that sin he was guilty of carelessness and negligence in his duty. The land owners as a class, he insisted, had never made land owning in England what it ought to be.

MOTORS IN USE IN QUEENSLAND

(Special to the Monitor)
BRISBANE, Queensland—Great interest is being taken in country districts in Queensland in motor traction, and a number of sales of commercial tractors are reported. An experienced pastoralist is responsible for the statement that in a year or two most of the wool carriage, at present being done by horse teams, will be done by motors. Many Queensland stations have supplied their managers with motor cars, and the horse is threatened with deposition in the departments, both of light and heavy draft.

MISSING PINTURICCHIO PANEL IS FOUND AT LONDON STATION

(Special to the Monitor)
LONDON—The panel by Pinturicchio, which was missed recently from the church of Santa Maria Maggiore at Spello, a few miles from Assisi, and for which a clever copy was substituted, has been found at a railway station in London.

The manner of its discovery was as follows: A short time ago the customs officials at Charing Cross were apprised by telegram from Rome that a box, bearing a registered number and consigned from Florence to London, might be expected in England shortly. For this they were asked to keep a sharp lookout. It appears that a wooden box, unlabelled and not bearing an address, was discovered amongst some unclaimed baggage which had arrived at Charing Cross.

The customs officials communicated immediately with Scotland Yard. In consequence two detectives shortly afterwards came upon the scene and the box was moved to the inspection shed at the end of the platform and opened later in the presence of the Italian consul-general and two customs officers.

On first sight the box, which was 3½ feet long, 2 feet wide and 1½ feet deep, appeared to contain nothing but a few articles of dress, but on taking the measurements of the box inside and out it was found to be built with a secret compartment, or false bottom. Further investigation disclosed a picture painted on a wooden panel lying on a piece of carpet placed on the real bottom of the box and in perfect safety. The Italian consul took charge of the panel and conveyed it to the Italian embassy. The box was left at Charing Cross. It is reported that four arrests in connection with the picture have been made in Italy.

The Madonna, which is a fine example of the work of Pinturicchio, is of the well-known Umbrian type, and the panel is supposed to have formed the centerpiece of a triptych now separated from the pieces of which it was originally composed.

ALSACE-LORRAINE CONSULATES URGED BY TRADE BOARDS

(Special to the Monitor)
STRASBOURG, Alsace-Lorraine—The Chambers of Commerce of Alsace-Lorraine are making further endeavors to secure the establishment of consulates in Alsace-Lorraine.

At the congress of the Chambers of Commerce held in March of last year, a report was drawn up by the president of the Chamber of Commerce of Mulhausen, M. Th. Boch, setting forth the difficulties which merchants and manufacturers of Alsace-Lorraine experience whenever they are in need of the services of a consul.

The report states that every demand made by the chambers to the imperial government on this matter has been met by a refusal to consider it on the plea that there is no justification for the demand. It is also to be noted that, in the case of France, any demands for consular services made by individuals in Alsace-Lorraine have to be forwarded to the embassy in Berlin through the medium of the government authorities in Strasbourg and the ministry for foreign affairs.

In the case of other countries applications can be made to the nearest consulate at Mannheim, Stuttgart, or Sarrebruck.

BERLIN'S NEW DOCKS IN EAST OF CITY OPEN

(Special to the Monitor)
BERLIN, Germany—The new docks on the Spree in the east of the city are now open. The total cost for the construction, including the price of the ground, was 10,500,000 marks, and the docks have taken four years to build.

The dockyards are nearly a mile in length, and are furnished with all the most modern improvements. They are equipped with quite a network of railway lines on which several Borgis engines are used, and are also connected with the local railway by a tunnel.

The cranes are all worked by electricity which is supplied from the dock's own center. All the buildings connected with the harbor were planned by eminent architects with an eye to usefulness, but the architectural beauty which is one of the remarkable features of Berlin was not neglected, and the new docks greatly improve the appearance of the east end of the city.

SOCIAL DEMOCRAT PLANS OPPOSED

(Special to the Monitor)
BERLIN, Germany—In order to prevent the reelection to the Saxon chamber of deputies of the Social Democratic Vice-President Frassdorf, the Conservative party has resolved to dispend with the post of first president, which they had hitherto made a point of claiming, and will content themselves with the post of a first vice-president and secretary.

The Conservatives hope in this way, by forcing the Social Democratic officer of the House, to effect a working agreement with the National Liberals.

BRITISH ACTION IN SUFFRAGE CASES CAUSES WIDE PROTEST

Lord Robert Cecil Opens Thirty-Eighth Session of Glasgow Parliamentary Debating Association with Plea for Giving by Parliament of Right to Vote to Women

(Special to the Monitor)

LONDON—Protests against the treatment of Miss Annie Kenney in prison and against the government's recourse to the practice of the forcible feeding of suffrage prisoners who refuse food while awaiting trial, have been many and widespread.

In a number of theaters leaflets were thrown amongst the audience, and as the King and Queen drove up to the Coliseum to witness the performance of "The Good Samaritan" numbers of suffragists tried to draw their attention to the condition of the women at present in custody.

An attempt was made to throw handbills into the carriage, but the protesters were seized and rushed away. Inside the building the number of policemen and detectives in plain clothes was noticeable, and the feeling that a suffragette protest was expected could not be denied.

At the City Temple church as well as in Westminster abbey, St. Paul's cathedral and the West End synagogue, suffragists interrupted the service and offered prayers for the safety of the women in prison. In the former, just as R. J. Campbell was about to announce his text, a lady rose and spoke from the front of the gallery. Her request to Mr. Campbell to enter his protest against the injustice being done was listened to in complete silence. Her voice was distinctly heard throughout the church and no attempt was made to interfere with her. Having finished, she walked quietly out of the building.

Lord Robert Cecil opened the thirty-eighth session of the Glasgow Parliamentary Debating Association with an address on women's suffrage. He said that in his parliamentary experience, that which he looked back upon with least satisfaction was the dealing of the House of Commons with the subject of women's suffrage. No single set of incidents could do so much harm to the reputation of the House of Commons as the idea that they could play fast and loose with pledges unless they were given to those who actually had votes.

Enumerating the reasons for his becoming an advocate of granting the vote to women, the speaker said that he saw in this country a large body of persons who held the ordinary qualifications of voters, but were debarred from voting because they were women. They had to obey the laws—or if they did not they went to prison; they had to pay taxes; they were quite prepared to undertake all the ordinary philanthropic, religious and other duties which fell to a member of a community; they were allowed to vote in all local elections and even to sit on local bodies.

They were encouraged to take a considerable part in politics, to be members of various leagues, in fact they were more than encouraged to do some of the most arduous and disagreeable work at elections. All this they did, and that they should nevertheless not be allowed to vote was a grave injustice. Why in times past had men asked for the vote, if not that they thought the vote protected them from injustice. The strong point that women had the same interest in their country's life and prosperity as men was seen in the fact that, in the proposed provisional government for Ulster, Sir Edward Carson, himself an anti-suffragist, now proposed to let the women's vote rank equally with a man's for the reason that their interests were as much at stake as men's. Why be afraid of the argument about the thin end of the wedge, that old impostor which really meant that they were not to do justice now because it might lead to injustice in the future?

He went on to say that there was no justification for the argument that women are incapable of forming an opinion on the imperial affairs of a great country, as had been proved in European history by the high average of political intelligence shown by reigning queens, who had often shown a great capacity and a great courage in dealing with other countries and military affairs.

CHILD LABOR PROBLEM STIRS INDIA JUTE MANUFACTURERS

(Special to the Monitor)

CALCUTTA, India—The recent proposal to prohibit the importation into the United States of jute manufactures, woven partly by the labor of children under 14 years of age, if given effect, would act as a very serious handicap to the jute mills in Bengal which are in the habit of employing a large number of children in the lighter tasks which have to be performed.

The government of India has since informed the Bengal Chamber of Commerce that the United States Senate committee on finance has recommended an amendment to the tariff bill, laying down that goods imported into the United States must not be principally manufactured by children under 14 years of age. This proviso will not apply to the Indian jute cloth which is produced for the most part by means of adult labor. The Bengal chamber accordingly considers that, if passed, it will meet the difficulty.

For some time speculation has been rife as to the probable size of the jute crops in Bengal. Last year the crop estimated in bales was 9,842,768. This year the demand for jute is even greater, but owing to the unfavorable character of the season the crop was generally expected to be smaller than usual. Consequently a great deal of speculative buying has taken place, with the result that during the past few weeks the price of raw jute has increased by nearly one third. The final forecast of the crop which has just been issued by the government indicates that the crop will indeed be very much shorter, amounting to only 8,751,000 bales.

The effect of this short crop, so far as Dundee is concerned, is expected to be the closing down of a number of mills, and in Calcutta it is anticipated that the mills will find it expedient to come to an agreement to work short time for part at least of the coming year. The number of mills and looms is steadily increasing and this fact renders the short crop of jute all the more unfortunate.

BAVARIA TRADE INTERESTS URGE REGENCY CHANGE

(Special correspondence of the Monitor)

MUNICH, Germany—The much discussed question as to whether the regent of Bavaria shall assume the royal title and dignity continues to engage public attention in Munich very closely. Recently the Association of Bavarian Chambers of Commerce met in conclave to decide upon what attitude should be taken in regard to future action, and, after talking the matter over in the strictest privacy, passed a resolution declaring that the eight chambers of commerce, representing officially the commerce, industry, and trade of Bavaria, consider it a matter of urgency, both in the main interests of the country and in the interests of the callings they represent, that an end should be put to the present condition of regency.

Furthermore they desire to see a King ruling once more over the country. Although realizing that the question is one of a preeminently political character, the chambers of commerce desire to request the Diet and the government to take the necessary steps towards the achievement of this aim.

SPANISH CABINET ISSUES NOTE UPON M. POINCARÉ VISIT

(Special to the Monitor)

MADRID, Spain—An official note was issued at the close of a cabinet council, held shortly after President Poincaré's departure from Cartagena, in which the council expressed its deep satisfaction at the events marking the last few days of the President's stay in Spain.

These events, stated the note, were of the utmost significance to the future of Spain, to the development of her interests under a regime of peace and with the support of the friendship which had just been cemented.

The development of Spanish policy in Morocco would also be affected by recent events. General Marina would, as soon as it was possible, develop a policy of pacification based on the cooperation of various elements in the country and inspired principally by the desire to utilize the commercial and industrial energies in the accomplishment of that protective mission which Europe had placed in the hands of Spain, and which would be furthered by the application, in loyal cooperation with France, of the regime of the protectorate.

Houston on High Musical Plane

Progressive Texas City Has Several Singing and Instrumental Organizations and Hears World's Greatest Artists

TALENT IS DEVELOPED

HOUSTON, Tex.—For several years there has been growing a general awakening in the thought of Houston people to the value and importance of high class music in individual and civic development.

Considering the indifference with which music was regarded, and the consequent indifferent music furnished 20 years ago, the present high standard demanded and received shows a progress along musical lines as remarkable as the commercial and civic advance of the city.

Present promising musical activity is in a large measure the result of persistent, untiring effort on the part of a few earnest pioneers. The history of music in Houston is linked with certain names. Mrs. Margaret Hadley Foster, an early promoter, with her ever ready pen reached the people with her advanced thought and high ideals. The efficient work of Mrs. Millie Hutcheson was furthered by her travels abroad in the interest of music, and her clear understanding of music lore. Her musical lectures given annually have been regarded as of great educational value.

City's Organizations

The Treble Clef Club, organized in 1895 stands "for music for music's sake," always using its efforts for highest quality.

The Woman's Choral Club, organized in 1901, began work in a modest way, hoping to give two concerts a year for the pleasure of its friends. At the close of its first year the purpose of the organization had not only been accomplished but confidence had been gained to attempt something more ambitious. Its first artist concert was such a success, artistically and financially, that it was decided to present Houston with three artist concerts every season.

The Houston Quartet Society, numbering about 80 men's voices, has performed valuable work for the musical and social life of Houston. With a large influential associate membership it was the first to bring to Houston the world's great artists. Through it was formed the federation of English Singing Societies of Texas. The first two festivals of the federation were given in Houston in 1904 and 1905, singers from many Texas towns taking part in the great chorus of 400 voices, accompanied by the Damrosch and Pittsburgh orchestras.

Combination of the Woman's Choral Club and Houston Quartet Society in 1911 was the result of a long, cherished plan of many leading musicians, and their joint concerts with the mixed chorus work as a dominant feature have been a pronounced success. These clubs are individually and jointly directed by H. T. Huffmaster. Through the efforts of Houston's musical organizations residents have been privileged for some years to hear the great artists of America and Europe. Among those who have been in Houston are Schumann, Heink, Jeanne Jomelli, Alexander Pettschikoff, Nordi, David Lispham, Frances Alda, De Pachmann, Elsa Rugger, Samaro, Bloomfield-Zeissler, Melba, Campanari and Anito Rio.

Last winter the large Municipal auditorium, which seats 7000 people, was well filled to hear Tetrastini. This winter the Treble Clef Club is to bring Miesha Elman, violinist, Clarence Whitehall, the metropolitan tenor, and Alma Gluck.

An organization that ranks high in the esteem of musicians is the Blitz quintet, founded last February by Julian Blitz, cellist, who won the first prize of the Conservatory of Music in Ghent, Belgium.

Symphony Orchestra

The first step was taken toward the formation of the Houston Symphony orchestra last June by the Quintette Society, when, under its auspices, the initial concert was given by 40 musicians. Mr. Blitz is the director of the Symphony orchestra, as well as of the Treble Clef Club.

Just entering upon its third season is the Girls Musical Club, composed of younger musicians who have combined serious study with their musical work. This club aims to present the young artists who appear to have a musical future worth encouraging. They have presented Arriola Pepito, the boy pianist, and Boris Hambourg, the young cellist.

The Mendelssohn Society is an outgrowth of the Mendelssohn choir of the First Presbyterian church, where it had its beginning as a 40-voice mixed chorus. The society was definitely and systematically organized by Clarence Magee, the present conductor. In addition to supplying the regular Sunday music, it gave a number of concerts and closed the season with Mendelssohn's "Elijah," with organ and orchestra. This year the society is being enlarged, and will devote its efforts entirely to the study and presentation of oratorios.

Texas Saengerbund held its twenty-ninth biennial festival in Houston in May, 1913. This was a very large musical event which aided in establishing Houston as a music center. One of the artists taking part was Marie Rappold of the Metropolitan opera company.

Much could be said of the rise of music in the public schools, able directors and teachers having charge of the work. The children have been trained to sing in chorus at some of the large musical festivals. During a season of the Damrosch orchestra concerts 400 children sang, accompanied by the orchestra. Their work was warmly complimented by Mr. Damrosch. There is organized musical work in the high school in the way of glee clubs.

The Y. M. C. A. has its glee club, with a membership of 40 which gives concerts in and out of the city. This winter it will give song and piano recitals by local musicians.

Houston is especially fortunate in her pianists, many of whom are known elsewhere. Miss Helena Lewyn as a child manifested such talent as justified her being sent to Europe where, under the teaching of Godovski and Conrad Ansoerg, she was prepared for concert work and has won fame both in Europe and America.

People's Concerts

W. S. Lockhart instituted about a year ago a system of Sunday entertainments for the people designed to take the place of questionable amusements. Mr. Lockhart's plan has been to reach every class

AMESBURY 100 YEARS MANUFACTURING CENTER

Only Town of the Name in Western World Started in Modest Way Long Ago and Gradually Won Fame by Its Industries

HOME OF WHITTIER

AMESBURY, Mass.—Widely known as the home place of John Greenleaf Whittier, Amesbury, one of the oldest towns in Massachusetts, has been famous as a manufacturing center for more than a century.

The town was settled about 1642 and named after Amesbury, England; it is the only place on the western hemisphere bearing the name. Amesbury is situated on the banks of the Merrimac river, with one of its tributaries, the Powow, running directly through the center of the town. The water power possibilities of the Powow in its quick descent from southern New Hampshire to the Merrimac were seen and set at work as early as 1804, when the Amesbury and Salisbury woolen mill was erected on its banks and the manufacture of woolen cloth begun.

From this small beginning and through changes of ownership, eight large mills, now known as the Hamilton Woolen Mills, were erected. With the decline of the woolen industry some years ago, these mills were changed to cotton manufacturing places, and so operated until recently.

Realizing that 1500-horsepower has been developed in the past and much good water power now is running to waste, Amesbury's Board of Trade is taking active measures to bring this fact to the manufacturing world.

Carriage Making Center

As a carriage manufacturing center, Amesbury's fame is world-wide, and probably what was the first four-wheeled carriage built in America was made in South Amesbury, now Merrimacport, in 1800. Amesbury-made vehicles were a success from the start, and the Amesbury carriage industry continued to grow until in 1892 more than 40 firms were engaged in manufacturing, and the output for that year exceeded 30,000 vehicles, which were shipped to all parts of the world.

The coming of the automobile made inroads on the carriage business, but Amesbury adapted itself to changed conditions and soon was building automobile bodies for leading automobile firms. Besides the carriage and automobile-body making industry, Amesbury is the home of the Bailey electric automobile; several shoe factories and one of the largest automobile lamp manufacturing plants in the country; a thriving hat factory, and a number of boat building firms, which have supplied dories and rowboats to the fishing and coasting trade for years. Transportation facilities by rail are good, and Amesbury expects direct water connection to Boston visitors include: John G. Whittier's home on Friend street, and many places famed in his poems; the Macy-Colby house, erected by Thomas Macy in 1654, spoken of in Whittier's "Exiles," Valentine Bagley's well, Whittier's "Captain's Well," the Susanna Martin Boulder, recently placed near the home of Susanna Martin, spoken of in Whittier's "Mabel Martin," who was tried and executed for a witch; Powow Hill, a famous Indian rendezvous; the old and New York if the federal government carries out the proposed Merrimac river improvements.

Panorama of Amesbury, Mass., as taken from Brown's hill

Public Buildings

Amesbury has a fine postoffice building erected a few years ago by the federal government; one of the finest public libraries in the state, erected by the liberality of its own citizens and containing 14,000 volumes; a sewerage system has been completed recently; schools are good; the supply of pure water is plentiful; has fine church buildings, Y. M. C. A., excellent banking facilities, the Provident Institution for Savings, having deposits of over $3,000,000, was chartered in 1828; the Powow River National Bank in 1836 and there is also a cooperative bank here.

The town has an up-to-date fire department, with auto chemical and steamers and tremendous water pressure is obtained from the reservoir, located on the highest elevation in northeastern Massachusetts.

For recreation, the town recently has acquired a large tract of land, which eventually will be made into a fine park, and local trolley lines connect with Salisbury, Hampton and Rye beaches. Amesbury's features of interest to Rocky Hill meeting house, erected in 1785, with its quaint pews and sounding board, and the Josiah Bartlett monument, erected to a native of Amesbury, who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence.

RATIONAL GOLF

By STEVEN ARMSTRONG

Here is another of the excellent series of articles contributed to Ladies Golf under the nom de plume of Home Green. This one is concerning the stance.

The grip having been settled, the next question is the stance; how are the feet to be placed in relation to the ball and to the line along which it is proposed to send it? In the first place try to imagine a line drawn through the center of your ball in the direction which your stroke ought to take. Then take up your position, so that your feet are at the same distance from this line and the ball opposite a point exactly mid-way between the heels. This gives you what is known as the "square" stance, as opposed to the "open" stance in which the right foot is advanced slightly nearer to the line of flight and the left drawn back, and to the "closed" stance in which the left foot is advanced and the right drawn back. There is a further variation possible in regard to the position of the ball; if it is not opposite a point mid-way between the heels, but is farther forward in the direction of the hole, the player is said to play "off on left foot"; if it is farther back the player is said to play "off at right."

In the old days when ladies' golf was yet all but unknown, the stance with the left foot advanced and the ball almost opposite the left heel, was the only accepted one. J. E. Daidley was the famous exponent of this style in the most exaggerated form, but even in the well known volume of golf in the Badminton series, a modified version of this stance is recommended to the beginner as being best suited to the drive. Nowadays, however, it has gone completely out of fashion, and we swing right round to the other extreme, so that nearly all the best players adopt a more or less open stance, even for the drive; for iron play it would scarcely be wrong to say that all of them do so.

The chief advantages of the open stance are that as the player is facing the hole more than in the case of the square stance, it is much easier for her to get the direction of her shot exactly correct—a point which is of special importance when approach shots come to be considered—and further that this stance encourages the player to follow through more completely—to continue the stroke, that is to say, after the ball has been struck. With a square and still more with a closed stance, there is a tendency for the left shoulder to get rather in the way and so check the finish of the stroke. This is doubtless also the explanation of the generally accepted fact that it is possible to drive further when the open stance is adopted than when the player stands square.

DR. JOSLIN TO IMPROVE OXFORD BY PARKMAN ROAD

OXFORD, Mass.—Dr. Elliott P. Joslin will spend between $15,000 and $20,000 in road, park and playground improvements for the town of Oxford.

George W. Cole, manager of the Dr. Elliott P. Joslin farm, began work on the road across the end of the common today for Dr. Joslin.

The building of the road is part of the plan of Dr. Joslin to beautify the common. The end of the grass plot will run down opposite the road that will lead to the park and playground to be put in later.

Party Status at Stake in Today's Election

Elections Being Held Today Are Regarded by Experts as More Important Than the Usual Off-Year Balloting

PROGRESSIVES ACTIVE

Two Senators Being Elected in South, New York Seeks to Defeat Tammany, Louisville Has Vigorous Campaign in City

Elections being held today in several states are regarded by the politically wise as more important than the usual off-year balloting since party alignment, particularly the status of the Progressive party, is involved in some cases.

In Maryland Democrats and Republicans seek to elect a senator. The Anti-Saloon League has sought to carry this election for the Republican candidate. Besides choosing between Mr. Underwood and Mr. Hudson the voters of the third district in this state will elect a representative to fill a vacancy.

At the close of the campaign in New Jersey both Republican and Democratic leaders were confident. Friends of Everett Colby, Progressive candidate for Governor, also predicted Mr. Colby's election, but this, it was said, was not taken seriously, even by the rank and file of the Progressives.

Besides a Governor eight of the 21 senators and the entire 60 members of the Assembly are to be chosen. The election will determine not only the governorship, but also the complexion of the Legislature, both now Democratic. There are six Republican and seven Democratic holdover senators, and 11 will be necessary for a majority. This means that the Democrats must elect four and the Republicans five senators. Five of the eight counties in which senatorial elections are to be held chose Democratic senators at their last elections, although only two are normally Democratic.

James F. Fielder, Democratic candidate for Governor, was the declared choice of President Wilson before the primaries and Secretary of State Bryan and others prominent in national politics, came to New Jersey to speak in his behalf, and asked voters also to elect a Democratic Legislature as a means of endorsing the President's administration.

One of the matters to be voted upon is the adoption or rejection of the chancellor-sheriff jury commission law, a reform measure passed by the Legislature last spring after it had been accepted by President Wilson as a compromise.

John Purroy Mitchell, Fusion candidate for major of New York city, said at the close of his campaign last night: "The people are ready to administer a striking rebuke to Charles F. Murphy."

Mr. Mitchell said he had been told that Tammany district leaders were secretly predicting his election by 115,000. Mr. Murphy, however, made a smiling prophecy, that the whole Tammany ticket would win.

Edward E. McCall, Democratic candidate favored by Tammany, said: "I am confident that New York is going to rebuke the unfair campaign methods of my opponents. A majority of the voters will judge me on my record as a citizen and public official."

Economy and lower taxes, described early in the campaign by Mr. McCall, as the issues before the voters, disappeared as campaign topics with the advent of former Governor Sulzer and his one-time investigator, John A. Hennessy. Their attacks on Mr. Murphy and on Mr. McCall as his candidate, were taken up by the Fusion municipal nominees and Tammany became the issue.

Mr. Sulzer's removal by the high court of impeachment overshadowed all else of campaign importance. Mr. McCall being assailed as a go-between for Mr. Murphy and Mr. Sulzer in the events that led up to the removal.

The Fusion ticket is backed by Republicans, Anti-Tammany Democrats, Progressives and members of a number of independent political organizations. The Independence League endorsed Mitchell for mayor and Charles S. Whitman, the Fusion and Democratic nominee for district attorney, but selected its own candidates for several places on the ticket, including controller and president of the board of aldermen. It endorsed several of the Tammany judiciary nominees. The many charges made by Mr. Sulzer and Mr. Hennessy are under investigation by District Attorney Whitman.

WORKERS WISHING MR. BIRD SUCCESS

At 8:30 today one third of the vote had been cast in the sixth district, where Mr. Sulzer is running for the Assembly on a Progressive ticket.

The probable political complexion of the New York Assembly is of chief state-wide interest. The present Assembly has a strong Democratic majority. Republicans predict they will regain control, while Progressive leaders say the new Assembly of 150 members will contain 82 Progressives. Mayors are to be elected in 33 cities outside New York city.

One of the most vigorous mayoralty campaigns in the history of Pittsburgh closed last night. The candidates are Joseph G. Armstrong, former director of public works, and Congressman Stephen G. Porter, on a non-partisan ballot.

Interest in Pittsburgh was intensified Monday when Dr. E. R. Walters, county delinquent tax collector, and Howard B. Cusler, director of the city department of supplies, were held for court under $500 bail each on a charge of conspiring to issue fraudulent tax receipts during the primaries.

Philadelphia leaders of the forces which have been working for the election of candidates for district attorney, register of wills, receiver of taxes, city treasurer, members of councils and other officers in Philadelphia expressed confidence that their respective candidates would be successful.

Mayor Blankenburg heads the reform movement in Philadelphia. Up to 10 o'clock today 30 per cent of the city's normal vote had been cast. On account of the most cumbersome ballot on record here, unusually slow returns are expected.

Republican candidates make predictions of majorities ranging from 30,000 to 60,000. Fusionists claim victory for the Democratic-Washington party candidates by about 10,000.

The only state-wide candidates are two judges of the superior court, who will be chosen on a non-partisan ballot.

Although Mayor Newton D. Baker, Democratic candidate for reelection in Cleveland, closed his speaking campaign Saturday night, the Republican candidate, Harry L. Davis, continued his speech-making up to the last minute, making four speeches Monday night. Besides the choosing of city officials, city and state issues are to be decided.

On the ballots for mayor and councilmen voters may mark their first, second and third choices. Party designations do not appear.

Except in Louisville, Kentucky expected an overwhelming victory in Louisville, and Progressives declare their ticket will win.

Indications were that an extremely tight vote would be cast in Virginia for state officers, as there is no Republican opposition to the regular Democratic ticket headed by Henry C. Stuart for Governor. The House of Delegates of the Legislature, which is to be elected, will be overwhelmingly Democratic, it is said.

Every city and incorporated town in Indiana is balloting on full tickets. A good government movement spread through the state until nearly every city and many towns had these tickets. In Indianapolis there are six candidates for mayor.

Governor O'Neal of Alabama announced that he will appoint a senator from Alabama in place of Congressman Clayton, who recently resigned the appointment to remain in the House at President Wilson's request. Governor O'Neal said that a legal opinion just received from one of his advisers convinced him more firmly than ever that he had the right to make the appointment and that he was entitled to have the question formally passed upon by the Senate. The Clayton appointment was never passed upon by the Senate.

MR. GARDNER IN CAMPAIGN SPEECH

Republican candidate for Governor pleading his cause

"TWO LEADING PARTIES" NO LONGER FIXED BY THE VOTE

Question Arising Out of Possibility of Mr. Bird's Winning First or Second Place Answered by Statute—Political Complexion of Legislature Now Standard

Because of the activity of Mr. Bird, the Progressive gubernatorial candidate, the question has been raised as to whether the Progressive party would be one of the "two leading political parties" in the event he was elected Governor or secured second place. The question is of importance because in the appointment of members to some state commissions, the law frequently specifies that they shall be of the "two leading political parties" or that a certain number of members shall be from each of the "two leading political parties."

An examination of the statutes shows that up to early in 1912, the two leading political parties were determined by the vote cast for Governor at the previous state election. The two parties whose gubernatorial candidates received the highest and next highest vote were the "two leading political parties." They have been for many years the Republican and Democratic.

A special act of 1912 and the new codification of the election laws in 1913, both changed the mode of determining the two leading parties so that now it is the make-up of the Legislature which settles the question. The two parties which have the most members in the Legislature are the two leading political parties. Hence, if Congressman Gardner ran third in today's election the Republican party would continue to be one of the two leading parties and entitled to membership on the commissions in question. If there were more Republican legislators than members of any other party the Republican party would continue to be the ranking party and entitled to the awards and emoluments which go with this position.

PLEA IS MADE TO DISSOLVE HARVESTER CO.

Attorney Edward P. Grosvenor, for the Government in Suit Against So-Called Trust, Urges Company Is Monopoly

ACTION NEARS CLOSE

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Edward P. Grosvenor, finished the first part of his final argument for the government in the suit to dissolve the International Harvester Company Monday afternoon. He declared in the United States district court that unless the so-called "Harvester trust" is dissolved, two families within a few years will own a monopoly of every farming implement made in this country.

Then with maps of the agricultural states of this country Mr. Grosvenor showed the location of 40,000 local agents or dealers which, he declared, is only a portion of the selling machinery dominated by the International Harvester Company, designed to force the local dealer to accept the dictates of the "trust" or be crushed.

Mr. Grosvenor quoted precedents in the Union Pacific, Trans-Missouri freight, Northern Securities, bathtub, cotton and the anthracite cases as substantiating his contention for all lack of justification.

Mr. Grosvenor completed the first portion of his argument and yielded to Judge McHugh of counsel for the defense. Judge McHugh had just begun his argument when court adjourned.

The suit was filed more than a year and a half ago and hearings have been held in many parts of the country before Special Examiner Robert S. Taylor. The case has reached the stage of final arguments. Attorney-General McReynolds and his special agent, Joseph R. Darling, are with Mr. Grosvenor, here representing the government.

The Harvester Company had on hand many attorneys, including Judge William D. McHugh of Omaha, Frank B. Kellogg of St. Paul, Edgar A. Bancroft, John P. Wilson, Philip A. Post, Victor A. Remy and W. M. Stillwell, the last five being from Chicago.

ONLY VISITS, SAYS SIR WM. TYRRELL

Sir William Tyrrell, one of the private secretaries of Sir Edward Grey, British minister of foreign affairs, at a hotel here Monday, declared that his visit to this country has no political or diplomatic significance. Sir William said he will soon go on South to Washington.

HEAVY VOTE IS BEING CAST IN STATE AT LARGE

heavier vote than last year. In precinct 4 the vote was 238, while last year at this time it was 175. More than 50 per cent of the 458 votes were cast at 10:15. In precinct 3, 200 votes were cast at 10:30, last year only 100.

In ward 8, precinct 3, at 10:15, 217 votes were cast, against 210 at the same time last year. The total registration is over 600.

Numerous voters in precinct 1 of ward 10 who are considered Democrats failed to appear at the polls this morning. Consequently the vote was light in this precinct, 70 ballots having been recorded up at 10 a. m. Last year at the corresponding hour 90 votes had been deposited. At this voting place the Progressive party was represented by a woman checker.

At 9:45 a. m. in precinct 2 of ward 10, 114 ballots had been cast. This was said to be practically the same number of votes as had been cast at the same time in 1912.

In ward 8, precinct 6, at 10:35 a. m., 262 votes were cast, last year 225. In precinct 4, ward 8, 315, about the same as last year; in precinct 2, ward 8, at 11:30, 275 had voted against 175 last year; in precinct 1, ward 8, 195 against 190 last year. The total registration is 3084. Martin M. Lomasney, the ward leader, estimated that 2700 votes will be polled. Foss got 1954 votes last year but up to 11:30 today had received 50 votes. The Progressives are improving their vote in this ward.

Governor Foss left his home on Revere street, Jamaica Plain, and voted at 7:10 o'clock this morning at precinct 4, ward 22. After chatting with some friends, he returned to his home.

Mr. Bird, the Progressive candidate, cast his ballot in Walpole just after 10 o'clock this morning.

Congressman A. P. Gardner cast his vote in the Hamilton town hall at 9:30 this morning.

Cambridge and Somerville both cast a normal vote this morning. The total vote in 1912 was Cambridge 14,225 and Somerville 12,455. Frederick W. Cook, city clerk of Somerville and Edward J. Brandon of Cambridge made a tour of the various wards and said a good vote was coming out.

With the opening of the polls at noon in Malden the Bird men were basing their hopes on last year's figures, which were: Bird, 2257; Foss, 2285, and Walker, 1607. The total registration was 7000.

Interest is centered in Medford in the contest in the twenty-eighth Middlesex representative district between Benjamin F. Haines, Republican, and Richard J. Dwyer, Democrat.

About 80 per cent of the total registration of 3459 in Melrose is expected to come out here. Two local contests are helping to bring out the vote.

At 10:15 a total of 3232 votes had been cast in Salem as against 3295 for last year. According to estimates made here Gardner will receive 3000, Walsh 2500 and Bird 1000.

In the three precincts of Reading a total of 1075 votes were cast at 10 a. m. Leaders of all three parties agree that interest in the four-cornered contest for Governor will bring out about 2000 or 2100 votes out of a total voting strength of 2508 in Wakefield, which gave Mr. Bird a plurality of 113 last year.

A total vote of 1250 or 1300 is looked for in Stoneham today. The Progressives claim another local victory for Mr. Bird. Last year's figures were: Bird, 578; Foss, 437; Walker, 376.

Voting was heavy in Lexington this forenoon, more than half of the 1141 registered voters having cast their ballots up to noon. The total vote cast last year was 971.

The chief issue at the polls in Lynn today was the referendum which came before the citizens relative to accepting the report of the harbor commission which proposes improvements along the waterfront calling for an expenditure of $1,200,000. As a result a fairly heavy vote was brought out.

The electorate today is voting for candidates for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, secretary of state, treasurer, auditor, attorney general, eight mem-

Bracelet Watches

The bracelet watch has come to stay because it is so convenient and so safely placed—also because the jeweler's art has now made it a thing of beauty.

The newest designs are very fetching. They no longer look cumbersome or clumsy—a makeshift way of fastening a watch. These reliable little timepieces are so daintily mounted that the watch is an incidental and decorative part of the effective design.

Detachable Model is Popular.

The Waltham Movement Bracelet Watch illustrated above is one of the most popular styles. The watch itself is detachable from the adjustable link bracelet and can be taken off and worn as a chatelaine—in gold filled case and links—$25.00.

We are showing more than 30 different styles in Bracelet Watches, Swiss lever and Waltham Movements, in silver, gold filled and 18-karat gold.

Prices range from 10.00 to 100.00

Three Former Republicans

While there is reported to be no big defection in the Democratic ranks, two former Republicans and one registered Republican are running as gubernatorial candidates. Governor Foss, elected as a Democrat, but up to four years ago a Republican, is seeking a fourth term and has attracted a following of both Republicans and Democrats. Most of the leading supporters of Charles S. Bird, Progressive, also were Republicans and practically all of his vote is expected to come from Republicans. Congressman A. P. Gardner, the regular Republican nominee, won his candidacy after a contest which was followed by a temporary break with the state committee. The latter are said to be supporting him loyally, notwithstanding his former position.

The other gubernatorial candidates, Alfred H. Evans of Northampton, Prohibition party; George H. Wrenn of Springfield, Socialist, and Alfred E. Reimer of Boston, Socialist Labor, have loyal though small followings.

Some of Lieutenant-Governor Walsh's friends have planned to convey him from Boston to his home in Fitchburg by special train late tonight in case the returns indicate that he is the successful candidate.

In Republican circles today it is reported that Congressman Gardner is planning to be a candidate again next year if he fails of election today.

Last year, a presidential and a congressional year, with the Progressives in the contest, the state vote for Governor was 479,292, as follows: Foss (D), 193,184; Walker (R), 143,597; Bird (Prog), 126,102; Sawyer (Soc), 11,493; all others, 4916; total vote, 479,292.

Vote on Amendments

At today's balloting the voters are asked to record themselves on two proposed articles of amendment to the state constitution. The first amendment, if passed, will make women eligible to appointment as notaries public, while the second amendment seeks to authorize the referendum.

In addition there are local referendum questions which are being submitted to voters in most of the cities and some of the towns.

Among the county officers of Dukes county to be chosen today is a treasurer to fill a vacancy. The candidates are: Walter S. Beatty of Edgartown, Republican; Herbert N. Hinchley of Tisbury, Progressive and independent citizens; and Theodore S. Wimpenny of Edgartown, Democrat.

Governor Foss ended his campaign at Wareham late yesterday after a tour of Cape Cod: Charles S. Bird finished at a rally in Pemberton square, Boston, about midnight. Lieut.-Gov. David I. Walsh, the Democratic candidate, closed about the same hour after a long tour of the Boston wards.

Early Returns Awaited

Polls in most of the large communities of the state opened at 6 a. m. but in some of the smallest towns they did not open until noon or later. Most of the polls will be closed at 4 p. m., including those in Boston. A few small towns as usual will close their voting before 3 o'clock and the early returns are awaited in the Boston political headquarters with interest. Sometimes they are significant but usually cannot be taken as an accurate index, especially where there are four strong candidates, as in the gubernatorial contest.

Returns from many of the Boston precincts are expected to be ready by 6 p. m. The election department has prepared special blanks bearing the names of the four leading gubernatorial candidates. The ballots will be counted in most places first, with a view to getting the vote on these four candidates.

Machine in Pittsfield

Pittsfield, which is trying out the voting machine, will probably send in an early return and with little difficulty to the election officials there.

Congressman Gardner has hired the "lodge" room at the American House which the Republican state committee has usually secured in past years for the purpose of receiving the returns. The congressman and most of the Republican state leaders will gather here early in the evening to await the outcome.

Governor Foss and his lieutenants will get the returns at the State House and the Foss headquarters in Barristers' hall.

Mr. Bird is expected at the Progressive headquarters in Boston or his personal campaign rooms at 27 State street, near by.

Returns will be sent for Lieutenant-Governor Walsh to Democratic headquarters, 15 Beacon street.

The largest amount of political mail ever handled in the Boston postoffice district was distributed yesterday, according to Eugene Reed, superintendent of the central postoffice.

It was handled by 50 expert clerks picked from the regular working force and required 500 substitute carriers to distribute it throughout the postal district, which includes more than 80 sub-stations.

The regular mail business has also been larger than usual the past few days. Postmaster Edward C. Mansfield has expressed satisfaction with the despatch with which the immense volume of mail has been handled.

EPISCOPALIAN CLUB HONORS BISHOP LAWRENCE

Celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the consecration of Bishop William Lawrence and of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Episcopal Club of Massachusetts was made the occasion for presentation of an upholstered easy chair to the bishop from the club at the Hotel Somerset last evening.

Joseph H. Beale, dean of the Harvard law school, presided and gave over the chair to Bishop Lawrence with the remark that it was intended as a companion to the chair given to him on the 25th anniversary of his own ordination. About 400 members of the club, present and former clergy of the diocese and students of the Episcopal Theological school at Cambridge were present.

Besides Bishop Lawrence, the speakers were Suffragan Bishop Babcock, the Rev. Dr. Alexander Mann and Charles G. Saunders, a delegate to the general convention.

FASHIONS AND THE HOUSEHOLD

SMART SUIT WITH BELTED COAT

Finished with a collar of fancy material

NO smarter suit for the autumn could be found than this one. It combines a belted coat with a skirt that can be made in two or four pieces, as the width of the materials makes more convenient. The coat shows an upper portion that blouses slightly above the wide belt and a peplum that can be made with a straight or diagonal front.

There is an inverted plait in the skirt at the front, the back and at each side. These plaits are pressed flat to preserve the narrow lines required by fashion, but they allow certain freedom of movement.

Here one of the new silk and wool suitings is finished with a collar of fancy material and revers and cuffs of plain, and the result is very charming.

Serge is always excellent for the everyday suit for hard wear. Eponge is a favorite material. Cheviot makes a very serviceable suit. Corduroy and all velvet-finished materials are to be much worn during the season. This model is suitable for any one of these materials.

For the 16-year size the coat will require 4 yards of material 27 inches wide, 2½ yards 36, or 2¼ yards of 44 or 52, with ½ yard 21 for the collar, ¾ yard 27 for the revers and cuffs; the skirt 4½ yards 27, 3¾ yards 36, 2½ yards 44, or 2¼ yards 52 inches wide. The width of the skirt at the lower edge is 1½ yards when the plaits are pressed flat.

The pattern for the coat (7953) and for the skirt (7800) are both cut in sizes for misses of 14, 16 and 18 years. They can be obtained at any May Mantion agency, or will be sent by mail. Address 102 West Thirty-second street, New York, or Masonic Temple, Chicago.

TO REMEMBER IN BUYING MEAT

THE most economical rib roast of beef is the sixth rib; the juiciest, tenderest and highest-priced roast is the eleventh and twelfth ribs.

A standing rib roast is better than a rolled rib roast.

Porterhouse is the most expensive steak.

Hip-bone sirloin is the best cut of sirloin; it costs no more than the poorest cut.

A rump roast is delicious and costs much less than a rib.

The chuck makes excellent pot roasts and is cheaper than the round.

Stews and beef loaves from the neck and chuck are cheaper than from the plate and flank.

The brisket, plate and navel are best for corned and boiling.

The most expensive meats are not necessarily the most nutritious.

HOMES HAPPY WHERE ALL HELP

Instruction of children in active duties

A HOUSEHOLD, the members of which all work together, is the best example of active cooperation. It is an example of a family doing worthwhile things in a worth-while way. The children go forth from such surroundings ready to take their place in a world where the value of team-work is more and more recognized.

It is the training, and especially the early training, of children that is most important in bringing out these "working-together" qualities so essential to success. The first lessons in helpfulness are to be learned in the home. Once learned there as they should be their effect will be lasting, says a Newark News writer.

Parents sometimes complain that their children are not helpful, that they do not want to do the little things that are asked of them, that it is occasionally a task to get them to perform duties which are clearly theirs to perform. There are, of course, special reasons for this unhappy lack of response on the part of certain children. But, as a rule, the unwillingness, if it may so be spoken of, results from two things. The first is the mistake of the parents in not seeing that children, as they grow older, share in a reasonable way in the responsibilities of the home. The second is the lack of opportunity given to children themselves to help.

To share in home duties should be a pleasure and a privilege for the child. It can be made so if only a little sensible attention be given to the matter. A child likes to do things which are interesting to him; things that, at first, at least, show immediate results. He likes to give proof that he may be trusted, and he appreciates, quite in the light of a reward, his being trusted to do things by himself. If he does a thing well, he naturally looks for praise, perhaps for some special form of commendation.

To give this praise, or it may be, to make some return to the child for duties satisfactorily done, are matters for the parent's discretion. But it is to be remembered that praise and rewards are, after all, only accompaniments. No parent should ask a child to do a thing that is not right for the child to do, and for the child to do without the expectation of reward save that reward which comes from the knowledge of something well done.

Helpfulness on the child's part comes from a training in ways to be useful. And when children once get the idea of being useful, and see the help and happiness that they give ways occur to them. There probably is nothing that gives a parent more genuine pleasure than to have a child give some evidence of thoughtfulness in this regard.

Not a few parents, out of a mistaken consideration for children, give the youngsters small, if any, opportunity to develop in usefulness about the home. Certainly the wise parent makes no such error. No matter what the circumstances of the family, it is the poorest possible training for the children for them to be made to feel that they are expected to do little or nothing for themselves or others, feeling at the same time that all sorts of things constantly will be done for them.

Mothers, particularly, have a very obvious duty to their daughters and to themselves in this matter. It is no kindness to a girl not to ground her in the preparation of meals, in the fashioning of simple articles for herself, in the care of her room and in such other things as come in the province of home making and keeping. When this course in helpfulness is followed the girl gains in self-reliance as well as in ability. She becomes a real factor in the smooth and efficient running of the home. A boy, too, can be taught to make himself useful in many ways about the house. The making of little repairs, the construction, perhaps, of some handy device, the keeping of the grounds in order, the doing of errands—all these things help and they help in the boy's development, too. The interest shown by the father and the encouragement that he may give to both boys and girls in the performance of such duties, must be a powerful aid in the ordering and operation of the household machinery.

The happy well-ordered home is the home in which every member of the household has a part to perform, a part defined naturally by the very things to be done, but suited, so far as possible, to ability and tastes.

MEASURING CUPS

Three measuring cups in the kitchen will simplify many cooking processes, writes a contributor to the Ladies Home Journal. Have two of glass and one of tin. One glass cup with a raised rim is especially good for measuring liquids, as the rim prevents them from running over. The other glass cup, for measuring flour, should be without such a rim, so that extra flour may be smoothed off with a knife. The tin cup may be kept for measuring hot water or for shortening that is to be heated.

PRETTY FAN BAG

The prettiest fan bag of the season was made, says Mothers Magazine, from the top part of a blue silk stocking. The bottom was drawn together and finished with a tassel from an old-fashioned bead bag. Near the top was embroidered the owner's monogram and the strings were made of a blue chenille and bead cord, ripped off from an old cushion.

EVENING WRAPS ARE CUT LARGE

Materials rich and trimmed with fur

THE evening wraps will surely rival in sumptuousness and beauty the evening frocks which they only partly conceal. Fashioned from the handsomest of fabrics, they are cut large and roomy, and folded around the figure in a manner that indicates luxury. That they are costly, one can see at a glance, but it is impossible to economize on the evening wrap if one would be in the vanguard of fashion. The materials from which these garments are made often cost $25 and $30 a yard, and added to this expense there is that of the generous fur collar and bands.

Much of the beauty of the modern evening wrap is due to the materials of which they are constructed, says the New York Tribune. In texture they are exquisite, and it seems as if the manufacturers had dipped into designs with a prodigious hand. It would be difficult to imagine lovelier fabrics than the superb metallic brocades or the velvets printed with large floral designs.

Unusual as these brocaded velvets are they are no more regal than the plain chiffon and cobweb velvets in the richest of colorings or the handsome moire silk that is brocaded in large satin figures. The foundation of the material for these wraps must be silk, whether it be a silk-back velvet or a moire.

Undoubtedly the most practical evening wrap is the black one, either of velvet or a silky material, but the black wraps are not considered quite as chic as those reflecting a brilliant hue. So beautiful are the materials that little or no trimming is required, but much skillful drapery is demanded in order to give the voluminous yet not clumsy effect and the general luxurious air that distinguishes these garments. Practically all of the models display much fullness in the upper section.

One of the newest models displays an ingenious cape-mantelet arrangement which is really practical for the woman who cannot always depend upon a taxi. The original model was carried out in black velvet, with bands of white fox and gold embroidered motifs as trimming. There are still other wraps that are guileless of furbes; the upper section falls in a full blouse to the knees, where it is caught and held into the figure by a wide band of fur, and slits in this blouse serve as sleeve openings.

Lace and embroidery may be used as trimming for the evening wrap, but the finishing touch that woman craves is fur. As a rule fox, fitch dyed to resemble sable, skunk, and of course ermine and sable when the pocketbook need not be consulted, are the favored furs for evening wraps.

The linings of the evening wraps are as gorgeous as the exteriors; handsome brocaded satins and wonderfully designed chiffons in all manner of unusual colorings, ornamented with gold or silver garnitures and tiny silk or chiffon flower garlands, make the garments as they hang on the backs of the opera seats almost as interesting as they are on the backs of the wearers.

TRIED RECIPES

CREAM GRIDDLECAKES

ONE quart sour cream, 3 eggs, 2 cups of flour, 1 teaspoonful salt, 2 teaspoonfuls of soda. To the cream add the salt, and the eggs, well beaten; then the flour, and the soda which should be dissolved in a little of the cream. Add more flour if not thick enough.

RYE GRIDDLECAKES

Two cupfuls rye flour, 1 teaspoonful sugar, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1 quart sweet milk, 1 egg, 3 level teaspoonfuls baking powder. Sift the flour with the sugar, salt and baking powder; add enough of the milk to make a good griddlecake batter. Beat the egg, and add. Beat up until thoroughly mixed, and bake on hot griddle.

OATMEAL GRIDDLECAKES

One cupful cooked oatmeal, one cupful flour, one quarter teaspoonful salt, one cupful sweet milk, one egg, two teaspoonfuls baking powder. Mix into the oatmeal the egg, well-beaten, then the milk. Add to the flour the salt and the baking powder, and stir in gradually. Beat up until light, and bake.

POTATO GRIDDLECAKES

Two cupfuls cold mashed potatoes, one half cupful flour, one half teaspoonful salt, one cupful sweet milk, two eggs, two teaspoonfuls baking powder. Stir the milk into the potatoes, then add the well-beaten eggs; then the flour into which has been sifted the salt and baking powder. Bake in small cakes.

FRUIT GRIDDLECAKES

Two cupfuls of flour, 1 cupful of English currants, 1 teaspoonful salt, scant, 2 cups of sour cream or milk, 2 eggs, 1 cupful of sour milk. Sift flour and salt into mixing bowl, add gradually sour milk in which soda has been dissolved, add the eggs and currants. Beat up and bake in small cakes.

MEAT GRIDDLECAKES

Two cupfuls of flour, 1 cupful ground cold meat, 1 egg, ½ teaspoonful salt, 2 cupfuls of sour milk. Mix and sift flour and salt, add sour milk in which a teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved, and then the egg well beaten. Add the meat which should be ground fine. Any cold meat will do. Drop by spoonfuls on a hot griddle, and bake a nice brown on both sides.—Mothers Magazine.

KITCHEN SLATE

One of the most useful articles I have in my kitchen is an ordinary slate, the kind that can be bought for 5 or 10 cents. Writes a contributor to Los Angeles Express. It hangs in a convenient place, with a pencil tied to it. One side I use for my daily list of groceries, meats, provisions and special telephone calls. On the other side I make a memorandum of articles I must get on my next shopping trip; special errands to be made; and, in fact, anything I wish to remember. A wet cloth erases all, and it is ready for use again.

CROCHET IN HAT TRIMMINGS

Crochet has even invaded the realm of hat trimmings and wool flowers wired to stand out in a natural way are often on the new hats. Some of these crocheted flowers are made of mercerized cotton instead of wool, but in either case the flowers are quite smart looking.

Hat bands made of mercerized cotton, with a cross stitch design are seen, also bands of crocheted and knitted wool. One pretty little white street hat had a band of Irish crochet done in an open pattern with coarse thread and the effect was quite good. Bands of ecru Venetian crochet are effective on the soft felt tailored hat.—Chicago Record Herald.

TABLE DECORATION

For the Thanksgiving dining table a pretty centerpiece may be arranged by hollowing a large pumpkin into basket form, cutting the edges of the shell into points and leaving a handle. Place on a bed of ferns and use as a receptacle for fruit or flowers, says Los Angeles Express. Tiny pumpkins with lighted candles may be effectively tucked among the ferns and serve as favors when the dinner is ended.

GLOVE ECONOMY

Cotton fabric gloves are ideal for wear with a muff, according to the New York Sun. They are made in white, all shades of tan, chamois color, oyster shades and gray. The heavier ones, more durable, are of double fabric, and wear longer than the thinner ones to make their bigger price an economy.

NUT DISHES ARE SEASONABLE

Croquettes, sandwiches and salads

NEARLY all nuts are now at their best, writes Marion Harland in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and the housekeeper who seeks variety, as well as the one of vegetarian principles, strives to work them into her bill of fare.

Walnut Croquettes—Crack and shell a pound of English walnuts, or enough to give you a full cup of the meats; put these through your meat chopper. Mix with them a half teaspoonful of salt, the same amount of lemon juice, and two teaspoonfuls of chopped parsley. Put a teaspoonful of butter into one of flour, cook together until they bubble, and pour on them one cupful of hot milk. Stir the mixture of nuts and seasoning into this, add a beaten egg, cook two minutes longer, take from the fire, and set aside to cool. When perfectly cold form into croquettes with the hands, roll in crumbs, then in egg, then in crumbs again, and leave for at least an hour before frying to a delicate brown in deep boiling fat.

Nuts Stewed in Gravy—Boil and peel your chestnuts, the large variety; have ready a full pint of well seasoned gravy or stock which you have thickened to the consistency of a gravy. Drop your chestnuts into this, set it at the side of the stove and simmer for 15 minutes, never letting the gravy boil hard. Serve hot. These are especially good if cooked in the gravy of poultry and are delicious to serve with roast chicken, turkey or duck.

Nut Bread—Dissolve a yeast cake in a half cup of boiling water, put with it one cup of hot milk and one cup of hot water, one tablespoon each of shortening and of sugar, add to it three cups of whole wheat flour and one of white flour—enough to make a soft dough. Knead for 10 minutes, set to rise until it has grown to twice its original bulk, put with it a cup of chopped English walnut kernels, form into small loaves, let it rise an hour longer, or until quite puffy, and bake.

Nut Sandwiches—Chop the kernels of English walnuts, butternuts, pecans or hickory nuts, and to every tablespoonful of these allow half as much cream cheese. Season to taste with salt, soften with cream until it will spread easily, and use with thin slices of white or brown or whole wheat bread.

Nut and chicken sandwiches—To a cup of the white meat of cold roast or boiled chicken minced fine add a quarter the quantity of blanched almonds or blanched English walnuts, ground, soften to a paste with cream, season to taste with salt and paprika or white pepper, and spread on graham or white bread and butter cut thin.

Chestnut salad—Boil, shell and blanch large Spanish chestnuts, and let them become perfectly cold; arrange on leaves of the hearts of lettuce in a bowl and pour over all a good French dressing.

Nut and fruit salad—Divide oranges into lobes, removing the white skin, and cut each lobe in half, peel and seed white grapes, slice bananas, shell and blanch English walnut kernels, and put equal parts of each together on heart of lettuce leaves. Over all pour a mayonnaise dressing, just before serving. If you choose you may substitute grapefruit for the orange and may use apple instead of bananas. Do not cut either apple or banana until the last moment before serving, as they are likely to change color.

Senators Talk of Caucus on the Currency Measure

Some Seem to Think Such Action May Become Necessary to Secure Harmonious Action on Measure With Committee

ELECTION IS AWAITED

WASHINGTON—There was much discussion among senators on Monday as to what would occur when the Senate committee resumed consideration of the administration currency bill on Wednesday.

The freedom with which Democratic senators discussed the possibility of a caucus to insure harmonious and early action led to the thought that such a plan might yet be adopted by the administration supporters in order to prevent radical changes in the bill by the committee.

Chairman Owen said after a conference at the White House that a report would be forthcoming in a few days.

Senators Thomas and Overman also discussed the currency situation with the President.

"Wait till Wednesday," remarked Senator Overman as he left the executive offices.

The President is awaiting the elections in New Jersey, Massachusetts and Maryland and it is said that if they result in Democratic victories, he will feel encouraged to urge early action on the House bill.

The President made it plain on Monday that he would stand by the bill as passed by the House and would not consent to any changes in fundamentals.

PROVIDENCE TAKES UP PLANS FOR A LARGER CITY HALL

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The common council Monday night heard the report of the city property committee on plans for three possible schemes for the remodeling and enlargement of the city hall, took a recess to study the plans and then voted to lay the whole subject over until the next meeting.

A resolution requesting a report relative to the advisability of erecting a hall of records in the section of City Hall park, west of the west approach to the Union station, was passed after a short debate.

The first plan, designated as plan A, calls for the addition of 1½ stories to the height of the present building, bringing it to a full five-story size. This scheme, the committee's report stated, would allow an increase in office space of 63 per cent over the present room, and the estimated cost would be $350,000.

Plan B calls for the addition of a half a story to the present structure, together with a remodeling of the roof, which would make the building four stories high. This plan, the report said, would add 26 per cent to the office space and would cost $175,000.

Plan C was by far the most elaborate submitted by the committee. It calls for the addition of 2½ stories to the height of the building, making it six stories high and doubling the present office space. Such a scheme, the report stated, would necessitate the expenditure of $650,000.

HAMPDEN WOMAN PROGRESSIVES ELECT OFFICERS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—Progressive politics and progressive society were discussed by the Hampden County Women's Progressive Club Monday afternoon. The election arranged for these officers to serve during the coming year: President, Mrs. Amy U. W. Bagg of West Springfield; vice-presidents, Dr. Charlotte W. Fay, Chicopee Falls; Mrs. Laura D. Floor, Springfield; Mrs. William G. Wright, Holyoke, and Miss Minnie L. Taylor, Springfield; Mrs. G. G. Reed, secretary.

The Rev. Edward Payson Berry of the Memorial church, Mrs. James Hall, the former president; Mrs. Dwight and Mrs. W. E. Towne of Holyoke were the speakers of the afternoon.

The Rev. Mr. Berry said the initiative, referendum and recall look toward the safety of man and these plans belong to the Progressive party. In speaking of what women can do before they get the ballot, the same speaker advised trying the power of the tongue to spread the cause.

Mrs. Hale mentioned particularly the value of telling that one is a Progressive and why one belongs to the party instead of trying to argue with persons of other political belief.

PLAYHOUSE NEWS

HERZ IN "MADCAP DUCHESS"
With the accession of Ralph Herz as chief of the comedy forces, "The Madcap Duchess" opened its final week Monday night at the Colonial. Mr. Herz' methods are well known to Boston playgoers, who remember him favorably as star of "Dr. De Luxe."

His reception last night was flattering, as it deserved to be, for he made himself at home in the part of Harli at once, and fairly dominated the operetta after his rather late entrance. Now the fun-making of the piece will be adequately taken care of, for which, for Mr. Herz' sake, every one will be glad. Especially if it is recalled that Mr. Herz has fared as a rule unhappily for some years in the comedians supplied for his pieces.

Mr. Herz' lines are not all good at present, but the process of elimination and addition will take care of that. Nor is his makeup all that could be desired. People do not like to have their favorite comedian's face disguised. And another secret the public would tell the managers if they could is that they resent the wearing of wigs, even though the period demands it. Let us hope that the process of elimination will carry away Mr. Herz' wig.

Mr. Herz managed to impress his audience, as he has always done, of a slight strain of melancholy, an undercurrent of pathos running parallel to his buffoonery. And in doing this he is but exemplifying the classic idea of the jester. Among present-day comedians he is alone as regards that quality of his work.

The musical features went better than ever Monday night. There are some charming bits of melody, and Mr. Herz has twice used the exterior chorus as a background for the solo voice in a manner that reminds one of the exterior chorus of Puccini in "Tosca" or of Mascagni.

The song "Winged Love," one of Herz' exquisite little bits of real waltz writing, was done extremely well by Mr. Herz and Miss Whittell. Mr. Herz' voice rather reminds one of that of a sea lion, slightly impaired, and the contrast with the beautiful, colorful, though light voice of Miss Whittell was the more noticeable.

"WE THE PEOPLE"

Castle Square theater—John Craig stock company in "We the People," melodrama in four acts by John Frederick Ballard and Edwin Carty Ranck; first time on any stage. The cast: Phil Durgan.....William P. Carleton Healy.....Donald Meek Mat Rummel.....Frederic Ormonde Dr. Richards.....J. Morrill Morrison John Townley.....George Ernst Joe Weinstein.....Carney Christie William Maitland.....Al Roberts Madden.....Alfred R. Berg Jean Townley.....Miss Doris Olsson Mrs. Durgan.....Miss Mabel Colcord

Phil Durgan, when nearing the end of a five years' prison sentence, helps suppress a riot of convicts, saves the warden, and is rewarded with a pardon. Encouraged by his devoted mother Phil starts afresh in a western city. In eight years, at the beginning of the second act, he has risen to a high position in a department store and is engaged to his employer's daughter, Jean. The city's water supply, which is privately owned by a political ring, is an unwholesome menace to the people. Phil is urged to run for mayor on a clean water issue, but refuses, not wishing to risk exposure of his past. When Jean pleads with him to save the city he tells her of his prison record. She declares she loves him for what he is, not for what he has been, and urges him to accept the nomination. He does so and makes a successful campaign, finally triumphing over the people's enemies, even when they give his record to the local newspaper. Phil states the facts to a crowd of angry citizens, and turns their resentment into enthusiastic cheers. Presumably he is elected, but the authors end their play at this point and do not say. Why not a tableau of the perfect city, with the now rugged little children drinking from a sanitary bubble fountain and spraying the rascally boss, Rummie, as he passes by in all his tall-hatted dignity?

The play seeks primarily to entertain through clear and simple appeals to emotion. Incidentally the story pleads for justice for the reformed lawbreaker, asking the audience to decide which is the better citizen: the man who has been legally punished and who has lived down the fault of his youth or the lawbreaker who has never been caught.

The decision of any audience on this obvious proposition, of course, would be unerring. And thoroughly did Monday's audience enjoy expressing their decision in responsive tears, laughs and handclappings.

"We the People" is built by young authors who know how to write a popular play and who can write it well when they take the trouble, as they have not in this one. Their worst trick is the over-use of "strong" language. Otherwise the dialogue is genuinely vigorous and witty.

Carefully elaborated stage management in the first act, added to a novel, well-built setting representing the rotunda of the Charlestown state prison, gives the story of a good start. The last three acts often seem thin and crude in comparison. More complication of plot and more feminine interest would help, and would stretch the play to the usual length of an evening's entertainment, two hours and a half.

Perhaps Messrs. Ballard and Ranck put in all the time on this piece that they thought it worth, forgetting that in doing less than their best they were not playing fair with themselves, their audience, nor with Mr. Craig, who has probably done more than all other managers together to encourage the Harvard-Radcliffe beginners.

Mr. Craig went to a great deal of trouble to get the atmosphere of the first act right. He paid several visits to the prison with his staff and received every aid from the officials. The results are vivid. Heavy locks click ominously when doors leading to the great barred wings are opened and shut. There is a gray parting between three prisoners and their visitors. An alert guard paces up and down, jangling big keys. The lesser demands of the rest of the play are adequately met in production.

Mr. Carleton plays Phil with fine sincerity, from his first pallid, discouraged entrance, through his scenes of love and politics, up to his closing triumph over the boss in joint debate. Pretty Miss Olsson filled Jean's slight role intelligently, and Miss Colcord was moving as Phil's courageous mother. Mr. Meek did vivid work as a teamster with even a more tragic history in prison and out than the hero's. Mr. Christie did an intense bit well. The boss was played with vigor by Mr. Ormonde, though the role was only sketched in. Messrs. Roberts, Morrison, Ernst and Berg filled in satisfactorily.

In preparation, "The Country Boy."

OTHER BOSTON INTERESTS

Harry Tighe and his comedians amused audiences at B. F. Keith's highly Monday in their knock-about farce of college life, called "Taking Things Easy." Mlle. Mabelle and dancers presented pretty dancing numbers, most of which were in good taste; one was both poor and objectionable. Others are Emil and his polar bears; Robert Dailey and company in a comedy; Elida Morris, singer; Halley and Noble, singers and dancers; the Youngers, posers and balancers; Wallace Galvin, prestidigitator.

A motion picture dramatization of Bulwer-Lytton's novel, "The Last Days of Pompeii," made by the Ambrosia company on the actual site, is being presented this week at the Bijou theater. The play is skillfully adapted to picture use, and is well acted. The scenes are notable, including a street in Pompeii with a hundred persons strolling about. There is a vivid scene in the arena, followed by the flight of seeming thousands before the eruption of Vesuvius, which is shown in lurid episodes. A love story runs clearly through the whole. The photography is clear and steady. There is vocal and instrumental music for accompaniment. Miss Billie Burke will have a song in "The Amazons," which she is to play at the Tremont for one week beginning next Monday.

Montgomery and Stone and Miss Elsie Janis make an unusual triple star attraction for "The Lady of the Shipper," an extravaganza with music by Victor Herbert coming to the Colonial theater next Monday evening for a run.

LONDON—Great interest was taken, not only by the bar but by the general public, in the formal swearing in of Sir Rufus Isaacs as the new lord chief justice. Nearly all the judges of the court of appeal and King's bench division were present, together with an imposing array of counsel. The lord chief justice, wearing his crimson robe and chain of office, took his seat on the bench with the lord chancellor on his right hand, and on his left the master of the rolls. The oath of allegiance, which Sir Rufus Isaacs took standing, was administered by Mr. Kershaw, master of the crown office. The attorney-general then moved "That the oaths should be recorded," to which the lord chief justice replied, "Be it so, Mr. Attorney." The lord chancellor then made a short speech of welcome, and after some remarks from the attorney-general associating himself, on behalf of the bar, in the fullest measure with the lord chancellor's sentiments, the ceremony concluded.

VERMONT HAS NEW PROBLEMS

Editorial Questioning the Right to Take Public Service Matters to Federal Courts

EVIDENTLY Vermont did not reach the end of the problem as to regulation of her public service companies when the Legislature established a utilities commission. No other state, so far as observed, has had so great difficulty in getting the commission into control and effective regulation. The Governor has had to recast the board since the first appointments, as a result of the difficulty in getting it to carry out the conclusions of a special committee as to right telephone rates. The telephone investigation has been long continued and so far without conclusion. The commission has now been called upon to answer in the United States district court for its authority to compel a railroad company to build a proper railroad station in the town, or as it is chartered the city, of Vergennes, and the chairman has traveled to Washington to argue before the supreme court for early consideration.

Not alone is Vermont interested in the new question of the power of the state commission to make orders in such a purely local concern as the building of a station. If this is beyond its province and it must confine itself to lesser problems than ordering needed stations to be provided, its usefulness is so limited that hardly an excuse exists for its continuance. And if this be true in Vermont, it is equally so in other states, and the elaborate devices for the regulation of the corporations are found to be of little or no use. Chairman Bacon carried the case up to the high court on the question of the jurisdiction of the federal courts over this commission and has asked that the case be put forward in the docket in order to settle whether the state has a commission with powers or one that is liable in any of its decisions to be overruled by the federal courts. Every state in the Union has cause to watch the result.

Little attention has been paid outside the state to the telephone inquiry by this commission but it appears to have been working out a problem that other states will confront in time if they have not already met it. It is as to the power, and even more as to the capacity, of the public service commission to deal with telephone rates. Governor Fletcher had the service investigated by a special commission which reported some months ago in favor of a 25 per cent reduction in the rates. This was too drastic for the first act of the new public service commission, which refused to put it into effect, and the Governor removed the commissioners. The hearings have continued and seem not yet to have come to an end.

The New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, the local front of the American Bell, has put up a strong case, at least in the vigor of its presentation. It declares that the reduction proposed would be ruinous. The advantage in the discussion is with the company with its better expert knowledge, but the commission has the power, at least in theory, of requiring the fullest statement of the facts and of putting experts into the offices of the company to settle the fairness of the charges.

With this pair of questions pending, the Vermont commission has a chance to work out, or of having worked out for it, certain issues that will interest similar boards everywhere and through them the general public. Are the utilities boards subject to review in the federal courts? Have they no power over local matters, like the provision of proper railway stations? Are they powerless as to the telephone companies? Must they accept as final the assertion of the telephone attorneys that proposed rates are ruinous?

Apparently Vermont has been chosen as the field for the working out of these questions with some design. But the conclusions reached there will have application to all the states.

Peru Gains Free Religion Largest Guns for Panama

PERU TO HAVE RELIGIOUS AND CIVIC FREEDOM

Since Famous Penzotti and Ayulo Cases Republic Gradually Has Drifted Toward Education and Thought Free of Any Church

JOINS SISTER NATIONS

LIMA, Peru.—Public opinion can claim the honor for a victory just won when the bill for the suppression of the last clause of article 4, of the national constitution of Peru, passed the Congress and religious liberty went into effect throughout the republic. It is regarded as one of the most significant chapters in the political history of the country. It has taken years to accomplish a work thought to be needed to place Peru on a par with other progressive South American nations on the score of religious freedom. Without any display of rancor on the part of those who have been waging the battle for religious freedom in Peru the question had been permitted to rest in the legislative chambers following the decision in the famous Penzotti case, which, in 1909, caused a tremendous stir in every part of the country.

As a result of that trial a kind of religious toleration came into effect. It may be remembered that Francisco Penzotti, an Italian missionary of the American Bible Society, came to Callao from Buenos Aires, and commenced to sell Bibles and to hold meetings in that port. The clerical cause Penzotti's arrest, the missionary was thrown into prison and his case was tried in every court, from the lowest to the supreme court of the nation. In every trial he was acquitted, and after the final decision by the supreme court, Penzotti was released from the cell that he had occupied for eight months. He returned to Callao and to his missionary work.

That case and its important result is said to have opened the eyes of the enlightened Peruvian people to the grave consequence of permitting one religion to hold sway undisputed. And yet the battle was merely begun. The excommunicating of the well-known Indian attorney, Francisco M. Chuquihuana Ayulo, of Cuzco, by the bishop of Puno, two years ago, it is said, attracted scarcely less attention than did the Penzotti incident. Ayulo was accused of being an atheist. He was brought to trial by the church authorities, but eventually won his case. The most recent instance of Bishop Ampuero's retarding activity occurred last March. A missionary at La Patria is reported to have been doing some excellent work among the natives. There had been, it is said, numerous conversions. At the bishop's orders some of these converts were carried off and held prisoners at Puno for a week, until the hue and cry raised over their retention forced their release.

It was then that Sr. Severiano Bezada, senator from Puno, introduced in the upper chamber his bill for the suppression of the obnoxious clause. The article in question reads: "La Nación profesa la Religión Católica, Apostólica y Romana, y el Estado la protege, y no permite el ejercicio público de otra alguna." Translated, it is: "The nation professes the Catholic religion, apostolic and Roman, and the state protects it, and does not permit the public exercise of any other." The clerical set up a great opposition to the bill. However, it passed to the constitutional committee of the Senate, presided over by Senator Mariano Cornejo, alleged to be one of the most brilliant Peruvian lawyers and a sociologist of international reputation. The committee reported the bill favorably. The bill passed the Senate with only three negative votes registered against it. It then went to the Chamber of Deputies. The Monitor at the time informed its readers how the lower chamber passed the bill by a vote of 66 to 4. Religious freedom is now the legal right of all Peruvians.

Up to the time of the recent change in the constitution a non-Catholic religious organization had no legal standing in Peru. It could not appear in court to prosecute, protect or defend itself. The Evangelical Union of South America has been compelled to register itself as a limited liability company in order to hold property and transact business. That state of affairs is now done away with. The almost united support of the Peruvian universities and colleges, in favor of the reform measure, went far toward bringing the change about. The independent press, including the West Coast Leader, also worked insistently to the end that religious freedom should be the right of every one in the republic.

CANAL ZONE MAY BE GAME RESERVE

GATUN, C. Z.—As Gatun lake is the only large body of water in this section, it is expected that it will attract many birds on migratory journeys as well as become a habitation for native species. Along the Chagres river there is an abundance of small animals and if the isthmian commission persists in its purpose to protect the game the country along the water course and the lake may become a considerable reservation.

It is to the credit of the several recent administrations of Peru that the chief executives realized fully the necessity for curbing clerical influence in the affairs of the nation. President Billinghurst, like his predecessor, Augusto B. Leguía, endeavors to give his country a liberal government, and has been instrumental in furthering the material and ethical growth of Peru. Developments have been plentiful along the line of utilizing the natural resources. Education has gone ahead, and this in spite of the hampering effect of a constitution which provided for the exercise of only one religion as the dominant factor.

The news from Lima, showing how Congress went about changing the constitution so that religious liberty might prevail in the republic, is of the greatest possible significance to Peru and other nations in South America. The Peruvian legislative bodies by an overwhelming vote recorded their sentiments to the effect that the exercise of religious freedom was to be the privilege of every citizen of the land. It is true that the constitution has been set aside on several occasions so as to permit denominational representation in the country; but that, after all, made the remedy scarcely less valuable than the issue itself, although such action did point to a law which should have been removed from the statute book of Peru years ago.

That the clerical party entered a violent opposition to that which would lessen its authority was to be expected. But conditions were shaping themselves so that the liberal element could press home its wish. The record showed that in sections where religious rights had been somewhat respected there had been a sustained effort to minimize the good work of the missionaries. The courts, however, in every instance upheld the reasonable ideals of those who at considerable risk had ventured to speak the word of religious liberalism. And with the best people everywhere ranged on their side the senators and deputies who championed greater freedom won. The victory is one that finds Peru entering on a period of great possibilities from whatever point of view the future is considered.

HONDURAS RESISTS ALLEGED ERROR OF SALVADOR'S PRESS

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras.—The local press is considerably wrought up on account of a despatch that has appeared in the Diario del Salvador, a leading paper published in San Salvador, and which read as follows: "Washington—Honduras accepts the plan proposed by the secretary of foreign relations in the United States. This gives hope to the belief that the political difficulties of Honduras may be adjusted."

El Nuevo Tiempo, of this city, is especially pronounced in its assertion that the despatch mentioned was published by the Salvador paper for the purpose of embarrassing the present Honduran administration. The journal here claims the despatch has no reference at all to the universal peace plan of Secretary Bryan, presented to all the nations of the world, and also accepted by Honduras. In the words of El Nuevo Tiempo, "it is an invention by el Diario del Salvador, which on more than one occasion has published matter that is not only malevolent but prejudicial to the welfare of this republic."

The Honduran public is keenly sensitive to Central American criticism that infers that this nation cannot maintain its independence without outside assistance, and there is considerable speculation as to how the respective governments will consider the matter as brought forward by its aggressive journalists.

HAYTI'S ENVOY TO U. S. SEEKS AMITY

PORT AU PRINCE, Hayti.—President Michael Oreste has hopes through the sending of Sr. Ulrich Dividier to Washington as minister from Hayti, good understanding will continue between the two countries.

Sr. Dividier is one of the most brilliant lawyers of this republic. His rise has been gradual and conspicuous. He was at one time connected with the Echo, and he has been a teacher in the Haytian schools. He was a member of the Chamber of Deputies until sent to Cuba as Haytian minister. It is thought that he will make himself valuable at his new post.

SIMON BOLIVAR ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED BY VENEZUELAN

Military Display at Caracas with Speech-Making Marks Hundredth Year of City's Existence and Proclamation of Gen. Bolivar as Liberator — Gomez Absent

CARACAS, Venezuela.—With elaborate military display, with much speech-making and unusual public acclaim, Caracas has been celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of its start as a municipality. Oct. 14 was made the occasion for double commemorative exercises for on that day, a century ago, Simon Bolivar was proclaimed by his countrymen as "Liberator," the liberator of the nation. Combining the two historic events the people of Caracas met en masse in the "Panteon Nacional" and before the statue of the Venezuelan hero in the Plaza Bolivar, and the leading incidents in the career of the liberator were recited by noted statesmen and historians.

Peculiar significance attached to the celebration because of the fact that President Gomez was away from the capital on account of the Castro rebellion which some months ago necessitated that the chief executive in person lead his army against the enemy. There are those here who believe that the incipient revolution spent itself weeks ago, and that there ought to be nothing to prevent the President from returning to the capital. Some go so far as to say that it is a political expedient on

PROTESTANTS SEE GAINS IN BRAZIL

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil.—The Protestant church in Brazil is making progress. Native Brazilian clergymen are heads of important Episcopal churches in cities like Rio Grande, Pelotas, Porto Alegre, Bage and Santa Maria. The Rev. Dr. William Cabell Brown, in charge of the church in this city, has gone to the United States as a delegate to the Episcopal general convention. Dr. Brown is a native of America, but learned Portuguese so thoroughly that he led in the translation and the revision of the New Testament into that language.

GUATEMALA'S SCENIC SECTION NOW AVAILABLE TO TOURISTS

PUERTO BARRIOS, Guatemala.—Lake country here has long been famed for its scenic beauty, but it is only during recent times that travelers in Central America have been able to find suitable accommodations in the sections that make their greatest appeal to the tourist. Better railroad facilities and an appreciation on the part of Guatemalans that their scenic attractions can be made to pay handsome returns if presented properly, have helped to turn the attention of many more tourists to the lake country. Properly speaking there are four lake districts, containing the lakes of Peten, Yzabal, Amatitlan and Atitlan.

These are the four larger lakes in Guatemala, and there are numerous smaller bodies of water scattered throughout the republic. Each lake seems to have an atmosphere that distinguishes it from the other. There is scarcely another part of the world where the scenery is more varied than here in Guatemala. One way in which to cover the country properly is for the traveler who arrives at Puerto Barrios to stop here over night and leave in the morning on the little mailboat which runs to Livingston, a short distance across the Gulf of Amatique. There a new hotel has been built, Lake Yzabal lies about 50 miles inland, and a regular line of steamers plies between Livingston and Panos, in the Polochic river.

Entrance to Lake Yzabal is gained

PANAMA GUNS ARE TO CARRY NEARLY 12 MILES OUT TO SEA

Islands Guarding Canal's Entrance Into Waters of the Pacific Supplied with Armament Said to Be Most Powerful Known — World's Great Forts Examined

PANAMA.—The inspection of the Canal Zone by Lindley M. Garrison, secretary of war, who is accompanied by Gen. E. M. Wheeler, chief of the coast artillery, calls attention to the work now being done on fortifications at both ends of the canal. On the Pacific side the main fortifications are being placed on the three islands, Flamenco, Perico and Naos. It is stated by military authorities that the armament of these fortifications will be more powerful than those installed in any other part of the world. The government has had the advantage of examining the most advanced types in existence, and nothing but armament of proved effectiveness will be put in place. On Flamenco, the outermost of the three islands, the armament will include one 16-inch gun. Perico and Naos each will have one 14-inch gun. Naos will also have two 6-inch guns and some 12-inch mortars of a new type. At both entrances to the canal there will be 6-inch guns and howitzers to protect the forts on the land side and submarines at the entrances.

In regard to the adequacy of the defenses the general board of the navy, in a report published last year, said in respect to the relative value of the Pacific and Atlantic forts referring specially to the Pacific terminal: "There are outlying islands that afford sites for fortifications, the usefulness of which in assisting the progress of a fleet in the face of opposition is universally admitted as far as the general board knows; but there has been unfavorable criticism of the possibility of fortifications at the Atlantic end to serve this purpose. The general board regards these criticisms as unfounded and believes, on the contrary, that the conditions at the Atlantic terminus of the canal are unusually favorable for the emplacement of guns that would be of assistance to a fleet issuing in the face of hostile ships."

There has been some question as to whether an enemy's ships could not stand behind Taboga island and from there control the water area in front of the Pacific terminus. On this point Gen. E. M. Weaver, of the board of ordnance and fortifications, says: "The new type of mortars that the ordnance department is making for the fortifications of Panama will have a range of 20,000 yards. They will cover the water well over beyond Taboga island, and have under fire all of Taboga island and the water for a considerable distance beyond the outermost limits of Taboga island. It is about 12,000 yards from the fortifications at the canal terminus to Taboga island. The mortars will reach 8,000 yards beyond Taboga. The 16-inch gun on Flamenco will have a range of 20,000 yards. The 14-inch guns on Perico and Naos islands will have ranges of 18,400 yards.

The 6-inch guns on Naos island and on the mainland have a range of 6,000 yards and are well placed to oppose any attempt at landing on the islands on which the fortifications are located."

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay.—The import duty on butter, and cream for butter making, has been increased materially by the law of June 4, 1913. The official decree already has been published.

ASUNCION, Paraguay.—Investments in quebracho timber lands continue. The extension of the Paraguay Central railway will afford an outlet to Brazil and facilitate shipments to countries using quebracho for tanning.

SANTIAGO, Cuba.—Sir William van Horne, who has a large ranch near here, has imported African cattle and Basuto horses from Cape Town, South Africa.

BUENOS AIRES, A. R.—Large quantities of corn are being shipped to Canada. The Clinton Hall has left with a big cargo for Montreal.

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia.—When the unfinished section of the Pacific railway between Buenaventura and Cali is completed the line will be one of the most important in Colombia.

IMPORTS DUTY RAISED BY MEXICO MEXICO CITY, Mex.—By an executive decree an additional duty of 50 per cent of the rates previously in force has been imposed, making the aggregate surtaxes imposed on imports into Mexico 65 per cent. The new rate has already gone into effect.

PARAGUAY BOASTS FAUNA UNKNOWN TO NATURALISTS

ASUNCION, Paraguay.—Some of the naturalists of the world recently have centered their attention on comparatively unknown sections of Paraguay, where the fauna includes many strange species. According to Indians who have come out of the dense forest reaches from Caguassu to San Joaquin, there roams in that section a large, black animal that climbs the trees. It bears no resemblance to the black panther, of which the Indians have no fear, but they cannot be made to approach the animal described.

Somewhat farther north on the Brazilian border is found the "ow-ow," a white, long-haired animal that runs in large packs, and which resembles a sheep, although, it is said, it is decidedly aggressive. The "mboya jagwa" is a huge water serpent which has not been classified by experts. It may be that the natives sometimes exaggerate the strange things they encounter in the forests of Paraguay, but the fact seems certain that in many respects less is known about the interior of South America than that of central Africa.

Bird life is especially well represented and there is a story to the effect that a feathered creature has been seen with phosphorescent plumage unlike that of any winged species that heretofore has come to the notice of the naturalist.

URUGUAY PUTTING EUROPEAN COTTON BEFORE U. S. FABRIC

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay.—After making a thorough investigation of South America as a market for cotton goods, an American manufacturer who recently visited this city expressed it as his opinion that much remained to be done before a paying trade could be developed in Uruguay for cotton goods of United States manufacture.

It was entirely a question of price, this expert said. European goods could be bought at a cost so much lower than grades appearing to be the same, bought in the United States, that he doubted whether the people in the country sections appreciated the difference in quality. In order to educate the public to an appreciation of United States cotton goods, he said, it might even be necessary to establish retail stores for the purpose of selling northern merchandise. The other alternative would be to make less expensive cotton goods, in line with what was now handled in the majority of the business houses.

MINISTER PRICE PRESENTS PAPERS

PANAMA.—William Jennings Price, the new American minister has been officially received by President Porras in the yellow room at the Presidencia in the presence of the entire government cabinet. Mr. Price studied for the bar and was graduated from Center College, Danville, Ky. In 1900, he was a Democratic presidential elector from that state, and was alternate delegate at large to the Denver convention in 1906. He was twice elected prosecuting attorney, and altogether has been elected to public office five different times. He was a member of the faculty of the college of law of Central University, Danville, for several years, is a member of the bar of the United States supreme court, and is one of the proprietors of the Kentucky Daily Advocate.

TIME FROM BRAZIL TO URUGUAY CUT

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil.—Railway service between Brazil and Uruguay has been improved with the completion of the short line that now connects Sta. Ana de Livramento with Rivera. The Uruguayan ministry of finance also has instructed the customs officers at Rivera to permit traffic between these points. The innovation will be of considerable importance in shortening the time of travel between Montevideo and this city.

PARAGUAY WANTS MOTOR BOATS ASUNCION, Paraguay.—Motor boats are becoming very valuable on the Paraguayan rivers. There are no less than 60 of these boats in Asuncion alone. It is said that local dealers are desirous of getting in touch with manufacturers of such craft.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

TOLEDO BLADE—The street cleaning department used to send a man upon a tour of the downtown section to see that regulations as to the disposal of waste material were complied with.

Perhaps a day or two later an employee of the health department would go over the same ground looking into matters with which his department was concerned. Then an inspector on the rolls of the fire department would happen along to see that fires were not invited by carelessness in the storage of goods, the accumulation of waste paper or improper wiring. Each man held strictly to his own line of duty and reported only upon such things as concerned his own department. It finally occurred to one of the department heads that time and money could be saved by having one man do all the inspecting necessary, and it was so arranged and with entire satisfaction. The case of duplication is typical in municipal government of the ordinary sort. Unfortunately, the "getting together" between municipal departments is not typical. The duties are marked off so definitely that one department will not do any work for which another department is responsible if it can possibly be avoided. The appropriations are made in such a way that one department feels aggrieved if it must spend any money on work which it thinks ought to be charged to another department, if it must lend equipment or men. The department heads are not to be blamed for this attitude. It has never been laid down as a creed in municipal work that men are working

NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS, Metropolitan Park Commission, Notice—Sealed proposals for furnishing tow boats to be used in breaking ice in the channels of the Charles River Basin will be received at the office of the Metropolitan Park Commission, 14 Beacon St., Boston, Mass., until 12 o'clock P. M. of Tuesday, November 11, 1913, at which time and place the bids will be publicly opened. The lowest bidder will be awarded the contract. The bids will also be required to do the work in a manner satisfactory to the Engineer. The price shall be quoted at a rate per hour, for not less than 8 hours' work on any one order, and the time shall be computed from the time the boat arrives at the entrance to the Charles River Dam Lock until it leaves the lock to return to its wharf, with deductions for any delays from causes beyond the control of the Commission. During the time of employment the boatmen shall be under the direction and subject to the orders of the Engineer of the Commission, or other duly authorized agents. The bidder will also be required to furnish evidence that he is able to substitute other boats of equal capacity in case of accident, either to the boat or machinery while in use; in case the machinery or boat breaks down, no compensation will be made for the time that the boat is unable to work. Boat must be sent to the work within 4 hours' notice of the time it is required by the Engineer of the Commission or other duly authorized agents. The Contractor, in performance of this contract, shall employ mechanics and laborers, shall give preference to citizens of the Commonwealth, and if they cannot be had in sufficient numbers, then to citizens of the United States. No laborer or person doing or contracting to do the whole or a part of the work contemplated by the contractor, shall be requested or required to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day. Every employee in the work covered by this contract shall lodge, board and trade where and with whom he elects, and neither the Contractor nor his agents or employees shall directly or indirectly require as a condition of employment therein that an employee shall board or trade at a particular place or with a particular person. The Commission reserves the right to reject any and all proposals or to accept the proposal deemed best for the Commonwealth. WILLIAM B. DE LAS CASAS, EDWIN U. CURTIS, DAVID N. SKILLINGS, ELBERT P. WHITNEY, EVERETT C. BENTON, Metropolitan Park Commission. JOHN R. RABLIN, Engineer.

SEEDSMEN

MICHAELMAS DAISIES
 These are grand plants for Autumn and late Autumn outdoor garden decoration, blooming gaily and freely after most other plants, and have little choice of soil or position. They can be lifted, potted and brought into the hall or room, conservatory or greenhouse and are equally useful for cut flower decoration.
 We offer nearly 150 particularly fine varieties in our Plant Catalogue. A copy free everywhere. Some idea of the charming arrangements of the flowers, of the pretty habits of the plants, and of our wealth of blossom, may be gathered from an illustration in our Catalogue, which is reproduced from a photo of one of our exhibits. DICKSON & ROBINSON, Cathedral St., MANCHESTER, ENGL.

Real Estate Market T Wharf Activities Sailings

One of those large 4-story and basement well front brick houses has changed owners today, numbered 306 Columbus avenue, on a lot of land extending through to Chandler street, containing 2083 square feet. It was bought by Fred A. Sleeper from Peter Daily estate and others. The assessed valuation is $20,500 of which $12,500 applies on the land.

Another real estate transaction in this part of the city was Charles L. Freedman's purchase from Fannie B. Rosenthal of that 4-story brick dwelling house at 12 Compton street near Washington street. All taxed for $5100. The 941 square feet of land carries $2100 of that amount.

BOSTON REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

Members are reminded of the address to be delivered by Samuel H. Pillsbury in the exchange rooms at 1 o'clock tomorrow, Wednesday, Nov. 5. The subject is his interpretation of the new income tax laws. Invitations were sent out to this effect several days ago by the general committee. For the convenience of those whose time is limited in this part of the day a buffet lunch will be served at small cost.

LARGE SALE IN CITY PROPER

The Walworth building, 128-134 Federal street, corner of Matthews street, has been sold to the president and fellows of Harvard College by J. Sumner Draper and Mark Temple Dowling. The building is a five-story mercantile structure covering 8387 square feet. The assessed value of the property is $304,800, of which $234,800 is on the land.

In connection with the sale the president and fellows of Harvard College have sold to J. Sumner Draper and Mark Temple Dowling 66 acres of the old Bussey farm between the Providence division and the West Roxbury branch of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. The tract has 5000 feet frontage on Washington street, South street and Hyde Park avenue. There are eight parcels aggregating 2,866,932 square feet, with a tax valuation of $275,200. The new owners will develop the property. Stephen M. Sleeper and John W. Dunlop were the brokers in both transactions.

SALES IN DORCHESTER

Ella J. Quinn sold to Cecilia G. Furlong et al. the frame dwelling house 3 Benham road, corner of Draper street, together with 3328 square feet of land, assessed for $5700. Land value is $1200.

Samuel W. Goldberg has sold the frame dwelling number 9 Page street, near McLellan street, to Max Pine. There is a ground area of 4200 square feet, taxed for $1300, also included in the $5600 assessment.

Grace P. Delano also sold a frame residence located 95 Alban street near Talbot avenue valued at $3200 by the assessors, and the 5442 square feet of land carries an additional $1000, making a total of $5100.

SOUTH BOSTON TRANSACTIONS

Brick and frame buildings situated 291-293 E street, corner of Gold street, also 361 West Fourth street corner of E street have been sold by the owner, Lewis K. Morse, to Nikolaos Malinonitis, together with the 6900 square feet of land. All taxed for $15,700, land value being $5000.

Another little sale between buyer and seller affects the frame dwelling number 247 Gold street near F street, South Boston, standing on 883 square feet of land. All assessed for $1100.

CONVEYANCES IN BRIGHTON

Building land on the corner of Oakney and Strathmore roads has passed into the possession of Elizabeth Steiner, containing 6893 square feet assessed for $4500, also another parcel containing 6832 square feet on Oakney, near Strathmore roads, assessed for $4400, both parcels being formerly owned by the West End Land Company.

Henry J. Moran has purchased from Margaret Tierney, deed coming through Edward B. Moran, the frame dwelling house and lot containing 3400 square feet of land, all assessed for $3500.

LARGE SALE IN NEWTON

Alvord Brothers report the sale for Helen D. Hartshorn to Margaret T. Rowbotham the estate 281 Prince street, corner Commonwealth avenue, West Newton, consisting of a new stone house and 93,000 square feet of land, 500 feet frontage on Commonwealth avenue and 500 feet frontage on Prince street, the whole assessed as an unfinished building April 1 for $25,000, of which $14,000 is on the land. This house has been in process of construction for more than a year and is built entirely of stone taken from the lot and Quincy granite. The new owner buys for occupancy.

J. Sumner Draper and Mark Temple Dowling have sold to the President and Fellows of Harvard College for investment the property numbered 128-134 Federal street, corner of Matthews street and known as the Walworth building. The building is a large five-story mercantile structure covering 8387 square feet of land. The total assessed value of the property is $304,800, of which $234,800 is on the land.

In connection with the above transaction the President and Fellows of Harvard College have sold to J. Sumner Draper and Mark Temple Dowling 66 acres of land in West Roxbury, lying between Forest Hills and Roslindale. It is that part of the old Bussey farm between the Providence division and the West Roxbury branch of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. and has over 5000 feet frontage on Washington street, South street and Hyde Park avenue. There are eight separate parcels of land, aggregating 2,866,932 square feet, having a total assessed valuation of $275,200. It is the intention of the new owners to develop the property. Stephen W. Sleeper and John W. Dunlop were the brokers in these transactions.

UNITED STATES IS SOUGHT TO LEAD IN PEACE WORK

ST. LOUIS—Speaking to members of the St. Louis City Club Monday B. N. Langdon-Davies of London, who represents the Garton foundation for the promotion of peace, said that peace advocates in Europe were looking to the United States to show the way for disarmament, and that the United States could lead the way because of its geographical isolation.

SHIPPING NEWS

Conditions are little changed at T wharf today. Fresh groundfish is still scarce and is selling at high prices. Thirteen vessels landed catches at the pier today, most of them coming from shore grounds, and being out only a day or two. Arrivals: Schooners Aloha 51,000 pounds, Frances S. Grueby 18,900, Stranger 7800, Washakie 9100, Flavilla 6500, Mary F. Sears 10,400, Genesta 17,200, Russell 8700, Olive F. Hutchins 10,700, Gertrude De Costa 27,700, Olivia Sears 4000, Eva Avina 9000 and Georgiana 2500. The Aloha also had 23,000 cusk, 1500 halibut, Russell 2000 cusk, Grueby 2500 cusk, and De Costa 2000 cusk. Quotations per hundredweight to dealers: Steak cod $13, market cod $6.25, haddock $7, pollock $3.25, large hake $7, medium hake $4 and cusk $4.

Mackerel receipts at T wharf today were brought in by two vessels, the Mildred & Agnes having 4500 medium and the Joanna 300 tinklers. Dealers' prices were about 12 cents per pound.

Two big fares of salt codfish from Canada under the new tariff fetched the Gloucester receipts today. Arrivals: British schooner Nita A. Conrad 390,000 pounds salt cod from Nova Scotia, one of the largest fares ever brought in; schooner Raymond 300,000 pounds salt cod from Newfoundland, schooner J. J. Flaherty 90,000 pounds salt cod from the banks, Eglantine 2500 mixed sized fresh mackerel and 18 barrels salt mackerel from Middle Bank, torkers 35 barrels herring, and gill netters 45,000 pounds fresh fish, mostly pollock.

With 6200 tons of coal, the British steamer Kendal Castle, Captain Howe, made port today from Louisville, C. B., after a three day's passage. Officers reported unfavorable conditions all the way to port. She anchored on South Boston flats, and proceeded to her berth at Everett later in the day. On board the steamer are 26 Chinese members of the crew, who will be carefully guarded while the steamer is in port to prevent any of them landing in violation of the Chinese exclusion act.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wood of Boston, George S. Reid of Newton, Eric Fornander of Greenwich and Mr. and Mrs. William W. Rhodes of Rutland were among the New England tourists sailing from New York today for Kingston, Panama, Cartagena and Santa Marta on the United Fruit Company's steamer Metaplan.

To have her cargo of 400 tons of coal discharged the dismasted schooner Henry P. Havens, recently abandoned in the bay while bound from St. George, S. L. to Bangor, and later picked up by the steamer James S. Whitney and towed to Union wharf, was moved today to Stewart's wharf, Charlestown, George Palmer, representing the underwriters, and Capt. Ernest Ray, commander of the Havens, together with a representative of the Eastern Steamship Company owning the Whitney, held a conference today. The steamship company agreed to allow the vessel to be moved and discharge her cargo, after Mr. Palmer promised to pay the freight. When the vessel is empty, the claim for salvage will be turned over to Mr. Palmer, who will probably arrange a settlement. The vessel was not insured, but the cargo was covered.

Most of the 17,000 pounds of striped sea bass which reached Newport, R. I., Monday night in two fishing smacks was shipped to New York dealers this morning, the rest being sent to Boston. The catch was the record for the season and came from traps off Narragansett Pier.

Picked up by the revenue cutter Gresham after having been towed to a position off Nantucket by the British steamer Astrakhan, the Gloucester fishing schooner Annie M. Parker is being towed into Vineyard Haven. The vessel, owned by the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Company of Gloucester, is reported by wireless to be in good condition. It is thought that the crew abandoned the craft.

metic questions is limited because the people are acquainted with the subject and can make allowances; but as mis-statements with regard to international matters may lead to serious consequences, I feel justified in making the above denial.

The secretary would not say whether any kind of notice was submitted. The Mexican situation is rapidly coming to a head, but with prospects of a peaceful adjustment, so declared Senator Bacon, chairman of the Senate committee on foreign affairs, this afternoon after a conference with Secretary Bryan and Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

Secretary Daniels presented to the conference a report of the naval strength now in Mexican waters and the additional strength of the vessels due to arrive there tomorrow. He ordered Admiral Fletcher not to shift any of his ships until further orders.

The supply ship Justin is under orders to start for the west coast of Mexico about Nov. 13 with additional supplies for the American ships near Guaymas.

MEXICO CITY—The story that President Wilson had sent to General Huerta an ultimatum demanding his immediate resignation created confusion here, until Charge d'Affaires Nelson O'Shaughnessy made emphatic denial that he had conveyed to Sr. Huerta an ultimatum or anything like it. Mr. O'Shaughnessy said he had not seen Foreign Minister Madero for five days, and that he had conveyed to him no communication that could be construed as an ultimatum. He declares he knows of no recent conference of diplomats.

BALTIMORE, Md.—President Wilson allowed no word to come from his private car, bound for Princeton, N. J., regarding his reported ultimatum to President Huerta demanding that he resign from the Presidency of Mexico. Secretary Tumulty decided at the last moment to take an early train to Jersey City, where he will cast his vote for Governor Fielder, and was not with the presidential party. The chief executive expressed high hopes of Democratic victories in the several states but refrained from making any predictions as to their final outcome. The President was accompanied by Miss Eleanor Wilson and the Misses Lucy and Mary Smith of New Orleans, White House guests.

LIGHTING COS. OF BOSTON ARE WELL FAVORED

Annual Reports of Edison Electric and Massachusetts Gas Indicate Prosperous Conditions During Last Year

GOOD BUSINESS GAIN

The annual reports of Boston's lighting companies for fiscal year ended June 30 last, were the most favorable ever issued. The Edison Company showing 14 per cent earned on its 182,000 shares after interest and taxes, while Massachusetts Gas Companies earned 6.07 on its 250,000 common shares after interest on bonds and 4 per cent preferred dividend.

In the following table is presented a comparison of the combined operations of the two companies for the past two years:

MASSACHUSETTS GAS
1912	1913
Gross income	$11,200,000
Gross increase	1,200,000
Gross income per share	44.80
Net income	3,010,000
Net increase	422,000
Net income per share	12.28
Exp. to gross, per cent.	74

EDISON
1912	1913
Gross income	$6,480,000
Gross increase	$600,000
Gross income per share	36.00
Net income	2,048,000
Net increase	237,000
Net income per share	11.33
Exp. to gross, per cent.	82

There was a net addition of 36 miles in the street mains of the four gas companies during the past year which is substantially the amount of additions in the two previous years. New business, as measured by gain in meters, was larger than the previous year, with a total gain of 12,247 meters, or 806 larger than in the 1911-12 year. A comparison of additions to street mains (in miles), gain in meters and per cent of increase in gas output by the gas subsidiaries of the Massachusetts Gas Companies during past three years follows:

Additions to street mains
1911	1912
1911	1912
1911	1912

Gain in meters
1911	1912
1911	1912
1911	1912

Per cent increase gas output
1911	1912
1911	1912

With the steady growth of its coal business a comparison of the Massachusetts Gas operations with the Edison Company as strictly lighting propositions becomes less equitable each year.

In the past five years the net earnings from sales of coal have increased to such an extent that at the present time they comprise 14 per cent of the total receipts. The combined net earnings of the New England Coal, Federated Coal and Boston Tow Boat Company in the last fiscal year were $421,320, an increase of $152,176, or 36 per cent over the previous year.

A comparison of sales and output of coal by the three coal subsidiaries of Massachusetts Gas companies in the past two fiscal years follows:

Gross tons coal
1912	1913
1912	1913
1912	1913

Both companies have shown a remarkable growth since their organization, as indicated below:

EDISON COMPANY
Capital	Cus. No.
1912	1913
1912	1913
1912	1913

MASSACHUSETTS GAS
Prop. cap.	Inc. Net earn.
1912	1913
1912	1913
1912	1913

Decrease due to sale of half Federal Coal property. (Nine months operations. Decrease.)

SLOSS SHEFFIELD EARNS DIVIDEND

NEW YORK—The fiscal year of the Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron Company closes with the current month.

The net earnings for October will not come to hand for several weeks. Those who are familiar with operations of the company say that the report will show the full 7 per cent earned on the preferred and probably a small amount for the common.

TELEGRAPHERS' SCALE SIGNED

DALLAS, Tex.—An agreement was signed here Monday by representatives of the Texas & Pacific railway and the telegraphers' minimum monthly salary on the main lines at $65 per month and 11 hours maximum work day.

READING'S TONNAGE

PHILADELPHIA—The Reading anthracite tonnage for September approximated 1,275,000 tons against 1,435,000 in September, 1912.

SHRINKAGE IN BANK RESERVES AND LOANS SHOWN

WASHINGTON—Condition of national banks in 11 cities as of Oct. 21 shows a slight shrinkage in reserve percentage compared with preceding call of Aug. 9, greater resources and individual deposits and a slight shrinkage in loans.

The percentage of legal reserve to deposits in these cities compares:

Oct. 21
St. Louis	21.85
Philadelphia	21.85
St. Paul	21.85
Minneapolis	21.85
Albany	21.85
New Orleans	21.85
Columbus	21.85
Baltimore	21.85
New York	21.85
Brooklyn	21.85
Topeka	21.85

Loans and discounts increased, except in St. Louis, Baltimore, New York and Topeka:

Oct. 21
St. Louis	$107,132,567
Philadelphia	$107,132,567
St. Paul	$107,132,567
Minneapolis	$107,132,567
Albany	$107,132,567
New Orleans	$107,132,567
Columbus	$107,132,567
Baltimore	$107,132,567
New York	$107,132,567
Brooklyn	$107,132,567
Topeka	$107,132,567

STANDING OF THE CLEARING HOUSE BANKS OF BOSTON

The individual reserve standing of local national banks, members of the Boston clearing house, at present and a week ago, is presented in the table below. In addition to the legal reserve carried here and in New York (one half may stand in the form of deposits with the New York correspondent banks), we compute what may be called actual reserve at present, as indicated by the excess reserve in New York. The excess of deposits with New York reserve agents over the amount which may be counted as half of legal reserve is here counted part of reserve instead of simply an offset to deposit liabilities, as is done in figuring legal reserve.

The excess or actual reserve over 25 per cent denotes the amount which might be deducted from the total reserve in both cities, Boston and New York, and still leave the legal reserve intact.

No reserve is computed against government deposits. The table follows:

Nov. 1
Union	27.5
Old Boston	27.5
New England	27.5
Fourth-Atlantic	27.5
Merchants	27.5
Second	27.5
Shawmut	27.5
Commerical	27.5
Webster & Atlas	27.5
Bay State	27.5
Security	27.5
Winthrop	27.5
Commercial	27.5
Average	27.5

Average legal reserve is 2 per cent lower and average actual reserve is 1.1 per cent lower than a week ago. Five of the 14 banks are stronger than last week in legal reserve and four in actual reserve. One bank is below the 25 per cent reserve, against one below last week.

FINANCIAL NOTES

Mexican Petroleum on Monday sold at 44 1/2, or 1 1/2 points, and a new low record.

A New York dispatch says: Visible American wheat increased 1,600,000 bushels. Corn decreased 869,000 bushels. Oats decreased 155,000 bushels. Visible supply bonded wheat increased 1,452,000 bushels. Oats increased 376,000 bushels.

The gross earnings of the Boston Suburban Electric Companies for the month of October were about equal to those of the corresponding month of last year. The increase for September of this year was 1 per cent, and that of October last year 7.34 per cent.

NEW YORK MAYOR FAVORS DRYDOCK

NEW YORK—Mayor Kline announced yesterday that he is in favor of the proposed 1000 foot dry dock that R. A. C. Smith, dock commissioner, wants the city to build in South Brooklyn at a cost of $2,500,000. The commissioner sent to Mr. Kline a letter explaining the project in full, and informed him that the dock department is preparing plans and estimates of it.

Mayor Kline has asked to see the specifications so that he may take the necessary steps to have the proposal approved by the city authorities.

CHICAGO HAS NEW CAR HEAD

CHICAGO—John M. Roach, president of the Chicago Railway Company, resigned on Monday and Henry A. Blair was elected to succeed him.

STOCK EXCHANGES CLOSED

The New York and Boston stock exchanges are closed today on account of the elections.

CONGESTION AT THE DEARBORN STREET STATION

CHICAGO—President H. G. Hetzler of the Chicago & Western Indiana railroad says: "As stated in the report of John F. Wallace to the council terminal committee, the Dearborn station is more congested than any other railroad station in Chicago. This has become more noticeable since the Chicago & Eastern Illinois has been operating its passenger service in and out of this station."

"The proprietary lines of the Chicago & Western Indiana, realizing this condition, have during the last few years considered six or seven different plans for relieving the situation, but have not arrived at a definite conclusion, feeling it would be best to await the result of the investigation now in progress by the city council as to the location of other passenger terminals in the city."

The Western Indiana owns and controls the property east of and adjacent to Plymouth place between Polk and Taylor streets. This company has asked the city council permission to lay and maintain two tracks across Plymouth place in order to reach the property referred to, and in this way enable it to better handle the immigrants arriving at the Dearborn station.

"This improvement is only an expedient and for temporary use, and in no way will form a part of plans for a terminal station that may later be decided upon. The temporary addition to our facilities will not only assist greatly in the handling of immigrants but will relieve the congestion referred to in Mr. Wallace's report to quite an extent. It will also enable the companies using Dearborn station to render better service to the traveling public until such time as definite plans for a station can be determined and carried to completion."

BIGGEST SUBWAY STATION IN N. Y. NEARLY FINISHED

NEW YORK—The big subway station, connected with the Broadway-Lexington avenue line in Broadway at the city hall, is completed as far as structure is concerned and now waits the finishing touches.

The first double decked station in the city, it represents a large outlay of money and of engineering skill. It extends from Chambers to Mail street. The platform is 300 feet long and the station, with approaches, is 700 feet in length. If the two levels were extended they would reach for more than a quarter of a mile on one plane.

On the lower level, 44 feet below the surface of Broadway, are three express rails, with two island platforms, while on the upper level are two local platforms, between which is an island platform 50 feet in width.

CLOSE BIG DEAL IN COAL LANDS

CINCINNATI—One of the most important bituminous coal land deals, involving half a million acres of West Virginia coal lands in Nicholas, Raleigh and Fayette counties, West Virginia, will be made a matter of record at Charleston, in that state, when an English syndicate, headed by James Callaghan and Peter Mallory, steamship owners of London, will gain title from the interests of the Guggenheims, the Lees, the Enshaws, Spragues and many others.

The transaction, taken as a whole, runs to $50,000,000. The lands include the Beckley, Fire Creek and Sewell seams in which 96 colliers are now said to be under operation.

SOUTHERN COTTON MILL EXPANSION

NEW YORK—Stockholders of Granite Mill Manufacturing Company, South Carolina, will vote Nov. 26 on proposal to increase stock from $600,000 to $1,000,000, to add 700 looms and double capacity of another mill.

Salisbury Cotton Mills has completed a new building for 5000 additional spindles; present capacity is 21,500 spindles and 500 looms. Watts Manufacturing Company, Taylorsville, N. C., will add 6000 spindles. Dallas Cotton Mills (Texas) is adding 2600 spindles.

HAND-TO-MOUTH STEEL BUYING

NEW YORK—There is practically no change in steel conditions. There is an absence of large orders and buying continues on hand-to-mouth basis. One manufacturer stated that his company was making no quotations for reason that there was not enough business to warrant regular schedule of prices.

Rail and car orders show some improvement but, compared with corresponding period of previous year's contracts, are unusually small.

BANK OF GERMANY STATEMENT

BERLIN—Bank of Germany statement shows a decrease in cash in hand amounting to 77,393,000 marks.

BANKS' ATTITUDE ON THE CURRENCY BILL IS DEFINED

CHICAGO—The National City Bank of Chicago says in its monthly circular:

The attitude of the bankers to the currency bill is not clearly understood by the people, nor accurately represented in the press. Some leaders among them are quoted as endorsing the measure "in principle" and others as objecting to it in some detail. Consequently they are regarded as divided on the question. The fact is, however, that they are as unanimous as any body of men can ever be regarding an important measure. Their attitude was definitely set forth in the resolutions adopted unanimously at the Chicago conference in August, and since endorsed with practical unanimity by bankers' conventions in every part of the country.

The bankers recognize the necessity for improvement in the currency and banking system. They have not met reform with opposition. They, and only they, have advocated it for many years. Moreover, they believe that the administration is sincerely seeking to give a wise law to the country. But they think they understand the matter from a practical standpoint better than any one else, and they wish to contribute the knowledge, acquired in the hard school of daily experience, toward the solution of the problem. They know that the modern credit system, which is their daily life, is a matter of such delicacy that to change its operation as radically as, even they themselves advocate will require time, skill and the hearty cooperation of all concerned. They, therefore, ask for a measure that not only the national banks will gladly accept, but that will attract large numbers of state banks, and they believe that nothing short of such unification will settle the problem.

They endorse the main principle of the bill, which is the centralization of reserves as a basis for an elastic currency and credit system. They believe that such elasticity is the only cure for the periodical panics from which this country alone, among great nations, suffers. They also favor many of the minor provisions. But they strongly object to certain features of the plan as being unfair to the banks, unsound in principle or unworkable in practice.

RAILROADS ARE HOLDING BACK RAIL PURCHASES

NEW YORK—While rumors continue to circulate in steel trade circles of intention of this and that railroad to place a large order for steel rails for 1914 delivery, orders themselves do not materialize and this class of business is much behind what it was at this time last year. Officers of several large railroad systems have recently said that they did not contemplate ordering in the immediate future.

The railroads are this year holding back their orders. For instance, last year New York Central lines had ordered 150,000 tons by Sept. 23 and Pennsylvania system 130,000 tons by Oct. 10. The latter later increasing its tonnage. Neither system has yet ordered any rails for 1914, nor have other important roads given orders worth mentioning.

It is more or less tacitly admitted in railroad offices that the pendency of the eastern roads' application for an increase in freight rates is a big factor in holding up rail orders. The president of an important railroad says:

"Last year we bought about 80,000 tons of rails, of which we have about 25,000 tons still on hand. We will not order any more at once. A great deal depends upon the way things turn out. If necessary, we could get along next year with the rails we have. I don't want to do that, I would much rather replace as many rails next year as we did this, or more. But in a pinch, for a certain time, we can cut down renewals. We are doing no new work whatever."

Cost of rails themselves is a comparatively small item in the budget of a large railroad. The 80,000 tons referred to by this officer cost about $2,500,000. But by the time the labor of taking up used rails and laying the new is added, consumption of rails becomes a considerable factor in expense.

Generally speaking, railroad officers are paying little attention to the bearing of the new tariff on cost of rails and other supplies. Price of rails from Germany or Belgium, laid down on the Atlantic seaboard, does not appear to hold out much promise of lower prices from domestic manufacturers.

DIVIDENDS

Norfolk Railway & Light Company declared usual semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent, payable Dec. 10 as registered Nov. 30.

Stockholders of the defunct Chicago National Bank, of which the late John R. Walsh was president, will receive a dividend of 15 per cent on Nov. 5.

Directors of American Smelting & Refining Company and American Cotton Oil Company meet for dividend respectively Wednesday and Thursday of this week. It is expected that American Cotton Oil Company will declare usual semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent on preferred stock, and that American Smelting & Refining will declare regular quarterly common and preferred dividends.

Notice that these dividends had been declared was inadvertently placed on the stock exchange's news sheet.

DECLINE IN EXPRESS CO. SECURITIES

Recession Started With Proposed Reduction in Interstate Rates and Parcel Post Service Helped Depreciation

OUTLOOK BETTER NOW

NEW YORK—That there was no further reactionary price movement in express company stocks following decision of companies to accept the 18 per cent rate cut proposed by the commerce commission may be accepted as indicating that the rate reduction, in its effect on future earnings, had been discounted.

While actual investigation did not begin until November, 1911, the commission had announced as early as July of that year that it purposed making a thorough investigation of the express transportation business, with a view to instituting certain reforms and adjusting rates. Consideration of the course of express stock prices begins properly, therefore with prices of July, 1911.

Prices of the big express stocks during 1911 up to July had shown certain declines from the high levels in first quarter of that year on rumors that an examination of express affairs would be undertaken within the year. The declines from July 3 to Nov. 22, when the investigation was actually under way, and subsequent declines, are indicated in the following tabulation:

July Nov. 23
Adams Express	210
American Express	235
United States	35
Wells-Fargo	172

Proposed reduction of interstate rates was the greatest factor in progressive shrinkage in market valuation, but an added one in 1912 was the parcel post service, which, though it did not commence operations until Jan. 1, 1913, was in prospect in 1912. The parcel post became largely a factor in the price situation because of the effect it promised to have on reduced margin of profit left by the new rates, which margin was to be sustained chiefly by light weight package business.

On the basis of the above quotations, the four express stocks, since July, 1911, exhibit a shrinkage of over $59,500,000. This heavy shrinkage on a total par value of four stocks of $63,967,000 is shown in the following tabulation:

Cur. Shrink.
July	1911
Adams Express	210
American Express	235
United States	35
Wells-Fargo	172

The above deductions are on a basis of 120,000 shares for Adams Express, 180,000 shares for American, 100,000 for United States and 230,670 for Wells-Fargo & Co. Adams Express stock, which has no stated par value, has been accorded a nominal value of $100 per share, the same as the other companies.

There is now a disposition to look for a steady and appreciation of prices. As the express company managements put their respective organizations together to meet the new conditions, and as new business begins to accrue to them, following activities of increased soliciting staffs and augmentation of special service, it is reasonable to assume that security values will appreciate. Already the express companies have regained some control of operating costs and since the beginning of the current fiscal year, they have lost no time in securing a closer hold on their respective territories.

TIN PLATE PRICE LIST CHANGED

PITTSBURGH—The American Sheet & Tin Plate Company under date of Monday, Nov. 3, announces its tin plate price for the new season at $3.40; the 1913 season price was named Sept. 4, 1912, the season being a forward one. The buying will probably be more active, as all large consumers are in the habit of having their contracts all fixed up long before the close of the calendar year. Last season's price for tin plate was $3.30. The price is named per base box of 100-pound "coke" plates, the standard, so that the increase of 20 cents represents $4 a net ton. The tin plate price fluctuates from year to year, according to the cost of the chief raw materials—sheet bars and pig tin—and these commodities have declined since the 1913 season price was announced.

The new price is really about 5 cents a box higher than the former price, if deductions be made for the cost of the raw materials, but it is some 10 cents a box lower than the average of previous years, on the same basis of comparison. Theoretically, there is promised $1 a ton greater profit in tin plate making for next season than in the season just closed.

COTTON GINNING

NEW YORK—Good judges are inclined to anticipate about the same ginning output of cotton as last year for reports to be published by census office Nov. 8 at 10 a. m., based on observations of Friday last throughout the cotton belt. Last season cotton ginned to Nov. 1 was 8,869,222.

Illinois Traction Company Underlying Mortgage Bonds

We have recommended the underlying mortgage bonds of this company as desirable investments for a number of years and wish to call attention to its present excellent showing.

For the year ending June 3, 1913, the earnings were over 19 1/2% on the preferred stock and 8 1/2% on the common stock of the company after preferred stock dividends. These stocks have a present market value of over $12,500,000, and there is also junior to the bonded debt of the subsidiaries the subsidiary preferred stocks, having a market value of about $3,500,000, or a total of over $16,000,000 junior to the underlying mortgage bonds.

We can offer several of these underlying issues to yield from 5% to 5.315%.

BODELL & CO.

PROVIDENCE BOSTON SPRINGFIELD

INCOMES MORE THAN $18,000 MUST PAY TAX AT SOURCE

WASHINGTON—Unless a person gets a salary of more than $18,000 a year his income tax this year will not be withheld at the source, as provided in the regulations just issued. Next year and thereafter the tax will be withheld on salaries of more than $3000 annually.

Treasury officials gave this interpretation to the regulations in response to inquiries from employers in various sections of the country who were not certain just how much they must withhold. In the regulations issued by the treasury, all of which apply to the collection at the source of the income, is this provision:

"The withholding agent (the source of the income) is not required to deduct and withhold prior to Nov. 1, 1913, the normal tax of one per cent for which an individual is liable.

"Whenever the total amount of income paid by any person by a withholding agent after Oct. 31, 1913, shall be in excess of $3000, then, in that event, the withholding agent shall be liable for and shall deduct and withhold the tax on such amount, unless such person shall file a claim for an exemption as allowed in paragraph D of this act, the amount of exemption allowable being $2500 if the annual exemption is $3000, or $3333 if the annual exemption is $4000, as the case may be."

All the other persons who come within the income tax, but whose salaries do not exceed $18,000, will have to make personal returns for 1913. They have some time yet, for the law provides that is not

The operating officials of the Boston & Albany road are working on a winter time card covering suburban service, to take effect at South station Nov. 16.

The car department of the Boston & Maine road placed the equipment of the Flying Fishermen train in the North Berly shops today for necessary repairs.

The mechanical department of the Boston & Maine road inaugurated full time at the new East Somerville repair shops today.

The Adams Express Company received at South station over the Pennsylvania and New Haven roads yesterday a large shipment of Kentucky vegetables consigned to the Boston market.

The car department of the New Haven road received at Roxbury yard last evening the first lot of steel vestibule coaches from Pittsburgh.

BROOKLYN UNION GAS COMPANY'S DIVIDEND RATE

If the requests of the minority interests in the Brooklyn Union Gas Company for an increase in the dividend rate of 9 per cent, attempt will be made to secure representation on the board of directors.

For several years some minority stockholders have joined under the leadership of W. Bourke Cochran, Jefferson Levy and Walter Reed, of New York, in an effort to force a higher dividend on the ground that earnings have for some time warranted it.

During the past year or more a partial concession to these interests has been made through extra dividends, bringing amount paid to 8 per cent.

It has been the contention of protesting stockholders that the company has been earning nearer 20 per cent, but the management has opposed a higher dividend with statements that it would bring a flood of adverse legislation at Albany. This, they claim, might result in lower rates to gas consumers.

The minority stockholders have for several years made it plain that they regard the management as efficient, but they do insist on a larger division of profits. No attempt will be made at the annual meeting to force the issue of minority representation on the board but if dividend demands meet with no better reception than heretofore the Levy-Cochran forces will seek to have a special meeting called for the purpose of having a full board of 15 directors elected against a present membership of only seven of eight.

NORMAL TRADE EXPERIENCED IN THE FOOTWEAR INDUSTRY

Generally Believed That Firm Prices Prevailing Will Be Maintained—Absence of Large Contracts for Leather, but Business Is Active

The shoe market is having a normal trade, the season is quite well advanced and considering that fact the amount of business being received is satisfactory. Prices remain very firm and in some grades they have been advanced within a week. As a rule merchants are accepting the situation paying the prices and operating conservatively but whatever conditions govern a market, let the occasion be ever so convincing corroborated by reports and statistics from sources unprejudiced and of acknowledged authority—there still may be found those who disagree with them and express opposite views with apparent candor.

The following gathered from the reports of the United States agricultural department, Washington, D. C., will assist those who desire to form correct opinions as far as possible in the circumstances.

In 1904 the United States exported 593,000 head of cattle and imported about 700 breeders. For fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, this country exported 24,714 head of cattle and imported about 421,000. Thus in nine years this country turned from an exporting to an importing one.

The same department states that there are now in the country less than 60,000 head of cattle to supply the demand of 97,000,000 people with the constantly increasing call for leather by industries not allied with the shoe business.

Fair minded shoe and leather men state that they can see no relief in sight, and with no marked improvement in the trade prices will be at least maintained if not stiffened before Jan. 1.

The demand for men's fine grade shoes shows a steady increase from year to year, any reasonable advance seemingly having no effect upon it. The orders for spring should be about all placed, but styles are such a feature nowadays that buyers wish to be fairly sure what the trade will want before they complete their spring bills. The medium quality is having a good business, and the dividing line between the two grades is hard to find, so great has been the improvement in this line.

Manufacturers of men's side leather shoes state that they have all the orders they can care for and ship when promised. Elk leather shoes take precedent over all others, but of course price must be considered so the call for chrome and kangaroo shoes is quite heavy. The factories are all running full time and enough business is booked to keep them busy for many weeks.

There is little new to report regarding boys' and youths' shoes. The prices are just as firm as before, and orders are collectively large but individually small, consequently urgent requests for early shipments are common, in fact "rush orders" make up the bulk of the business.

Makers of ladies' footwear say that they are busy, however, they claim that a busy day does not mean what it used to, as the many fancy styles block the works and get in the way of the regular goods. Still, while they may not yield a profit commensurate with the expense and trouble they incur they cannot be ignored or one's line would become featureless. All the factories are now very busy and will be till well toward spring.

The same report of active factories making misses' and children's shoes may be repeated, as manufacturers state that orders are coming with marked regularity and full capacity is the rule. The new sample lines are ready to show the trade and the traveling men will be on the road this week.

The hide market has not been very active of late, sales have fallen off, but prices hold firmly under the pressure. The situation can be attributed to the determination of the packers to get their price or no sale, and as the receipts of cattle compare favorably with a year ago, also that the grubby season is to be considered, tanners did not take kindly to the strong attitude of the packers and made purchases as low as possible.

There is a feeling among the tanners that although there may be a conspicuous discrimination between the supply and a market's needs, there is a reasonable limit to values even in those circumstances.

The first real note of warning comes from the steel district, and if there were found an occasion to lay off a few hundred men the fear is aroused that it may be the condition which is worthy of notice and if extended must affect trade from hide dealers to consumers. Therefore, hides differing little from any other commodity are only worth what they will sell for, and not what they are held for.

Leather of all kinds is selling freely and at top prices and while there is an absence of the large contracts once so common the buying is of an every day sort and totals about the same as in former years.

Hemlock sole leather sales were very good the past week with the supply small. The export trade picked up some but it is not what tanners would like to see.

Union backs are moving quickly or as the receipts permit. The output is but little beyond 50 per cent so the supply is small. Price is 42 tannery run and seems to be the top.

Oak sole is quite active or would be if there was enough on hand to make a fair supply. The price 46 is high value but the buyers want it just the same.

Black colored calf was in good demand all the week past, one party taking a block of it amounting to $25,000. Tans are going well, and the light weights, a drug only a few weeks ago, are cleaned out. An advance is rumored not far away for all grades of calf skin of 2 cents and over.

Side upper leather dealers report trade good. Elk, black and colored chrome, kangaroo, and satin are all selling freely and well ahead of the receipts. Prices are strong.

Light patent sides are in excellent demand with more inquiry for the heavier stock. Patent calf continues the free seller it has been for a year or more. Heretofore shiny leather had its seasons but it now seems to have become a staple.

Glazed kid is dull above 18 cents, and sold ahead below that figure. However, the fact that it is active in the lower grades shows an element of "coming back" which is significant and dealers express a belief that the demand will gradually creep into the higher range of prices, an event in footwear production which would be beneficial to all.

GREAT GROWTH EXPERIENCED BY VARIOUS GAS COMPANIES

Earnings Have Expanded With Much Regularity as New Uses Are Found for the Product and Consumption Increased—Unaffected by Business Decline

NEW YORK—No better testimonial of the development in the gas industry can be offered at this time than the record of earnings by such organizations during the past decade or so. Whereas returns of railroads and industrials have fluctuated widely from time to time, revenues of practically all organizations serving the public with gas have continued upward with uninterrupted regularity. There are many features of the gas industry which furnish elements of certainty for the stockholders of such organizations and little difficulty has been experienced in recent years in financing improvements, betterments and new additions to already existing and going concerns. In this connection attention might be directed to the sale a few months ago of $15,000,000 of nine-months' notes by the Consolidated Gas Company of New York. These were taken so quickly that they were at a premium within a few hours from the time of offering.

Going a little further, it should be remembered that the Consolidated's earnings in recent years have been unusually favorable, and notwithstanding the reduction to 80 cents per thousand feet of gas, yearly surpluses over dividend requirements have been shown and the indications are that the future will present even more gratifying returns. Growth and development of the territory served has necessitated the expenditure of large amounts of money for improvements, betterments and new additions, and today the company occupies a unique position in the gas-serving field.

Only recently the People's Gas Light & Coke and Commonwealth Edison companies of Chicago announced comprehensive financial plans for the future which were necessitated by the unusual growth of the city served. Earnings of these companies have expanded rapidly in recent years, and the former announced that the next dividend would be at the rate of 8 per cent, while its capital stock is to be increased by $15,000,000 to $50,000,000. The Commonwealth company also decided to increase its capitalization from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 and the distribution of a 10 per cent stock dividend.

Special attention may also be directed to the affairs and operations of the United Gas Improvement Company of Philadelphia. This important organization has made an exceptionally noteworthy record of operations since the date of its inception. Returns of the company have shown uninterrupted improvement, both as regards the gross and net and the percentage of gross gain from year to year that has been saved for the rise in net is noteworthy. At the close of 1912 its profit and loss surplus was more than $24,000,000. One of the important departments of the company is that supplying gas-heated irons for pressing of which there are now more than 5000 in use in Philadelphia manufacturing plants.

These are excellent testimonials of what has been accomplished by gas companies operating on a large scale, although the record made by smaller companies is equally gratifying. For the period 1902 to 1911 the gas and electric companies of the United States increased their gross revenues by over 110 per cent, while during the same time their combined net showed an improvement of almost 100 per cent. These are gratifying increases and the fact that nearly all the gain in gross was saved for the improvement in net speaks well for such organizations. During the like period electric railway gross returns rose about 75 per cent and the net 56 per cent, while the rise in gross by steam railroads was 65 per cent and the net 41 per cent. Like the gas company returns the electric railways returns show an uninterrupted improvement, although those of the steam roads indicate pronounced gains and losses in some of the years between 1902 and 1911.

Returns of industrial companies, however, make the poorest exhibit of the four classes of industries. From 1902 to 1904 gross returns of these companies sustained a loss of about 15 per cent and the aggregate gain from 1902 to 1911 was only about 18 per cent. Their net from 1902 to 1904 suffered a loss of about 40 per cent and from 1902 to 1911 the aggregate decrease was about 8 per cent. From 1904 to 1907, however, there was an uninterrupted gain of about 60 per cent and as compared with 1902 the improvement was a little over 20 per cent. From this it is apparent that the gas company returns lead all of those mentioned.

A peculiar feature in connection with the operation of gas companies is that, no matter how much of a depression there may be in business, the demand continues about normal for gas company products. The use of this product today has become so general that it is now utilized for purposes unheard of a few years ago. The large manufacturing industries of the country have discovered, after practical experience, that the use of gas in many departments is more economical than that of steam or electricity. One of the largest automobile manufacturing plants in the United States is today utilizing gas in many of its departments for various purposes in connection with the manufacture of machines, and it is stated that beneficial results are being derived therefrom.

Today there are more than 1000 ways in which illuminating gas may be used. There has been an unusual expansion in its use in homes and industries, but the growth has been so gradual that the average layman does not realize its importance. All of the large gas companies of the country, as well as the small ones, maintain a staff of experienced men engaged in educating the public to the various uses for their product and the results therefrom have been amazing. Practical exhibition has proved of great benefit to the gas companies, and those familiar with the situation predict an even greater development and expansion in business during the next decade than has been enjoyed in the past 10 years.

Not only is the large automobile company referred to above using more than 3,000,000 cubic feet of gas per month, which is probably the largest individual consumer of the day, but there are thousands of other industrial concerns which are either using it entirely or in some of their departments. Gas has proved an excellent power for operating engines, its efficiency in this connection having been fully shown.

SALEM-BEVERLY WATER PLAN NOW SURFACE DITCH

SALEM, Mass.—The Salem-Beverly water commission, consisting of Nathan Matthews, former mayor of Boston; Director Patrick J. Kelley of Salem, and Robert Robertson, president of the water board of Beverly, appointed for the purpose of inaugurating an auxiliary water supply for the two municipalities by taking water from the Ipswich river, in addition to the present supply provided by Wenham lake, are considering a plan for flowing the water from the river to the lake by means of ditching. By constructing a dam in the Wenham meadows, near the estate of Thomas Proctor, the water in the river can be raised several feet and made to flow by gravity to the lake without pumping, it is said.

Engineers are at work making surveys on a two-mile route which will take until the first of the year. Under the legislative permit granted early in the year, the scheme contemplated at that time was one of pumping water from the river through a pipe line three miles long, to the lake.

DEBATING SOCIETY HAS FIRST CONTEST

MEDFORD, Mass.—The Tufts College Debating Society had its first regular meeting Monday afternoon with a debate upon the subject: "Resolved, That the law exempting United States vessels from the payment of tolls in the Panama canal, should be repealed."

The affirmative team, composed of Benjamin A. Ward, Jr., '15, of West Somerville, Sidney C. Wiggin '16 of Roxbury, and John N. Mark '17 of Glasgow, Scotland, won.

The following officers were elected at the meeting: Wilfred F. Kelley '16 of Roxbury, president; Albert W. Swenson '16 of Medford, secretary; and Donald R. McJannet '16, librarian. An intercollegiate debate with Bates, the M. A. C. team and a triangular debate, Bates, Colby and Tufts participating, are possibilities.

A Better Investment Income than has been possible for a number of years from sound securities is open to those who purchase the bond described in our Circular 246. A very attractive feature of this bond is that, in addition to the safety of principal and the income it yields, there is every indication that in a few years it will provide the purchaser with even a larger income, due to convertible privileges which are optional.

We invite requests from those who have immediately available, for Special Descriptive Circular 246, which describes the investment fully.

HEAVY EXPENDITURES OF THE HOCKING VALLEY LAST YEAR

NEW YORK—Hocking Valley, controlled by Chesapeake & Ohio, and that company's best investment, earned 17.42 per cent upon its $11,000,000 common stock in fiscal year ended June 30 last, compared with 16.64 per cent the year previous. The company, like other roads in its territory, was hit by the spring floods in the Ohio valleys, but ended the year with a 7 per cent increase in gross revenues.

This gross gain of $313,964, was four fifths absorbed by higher operating expenses, which were $404,801 larger than in year before. Practically all of the additions to expenses were entered in maintenance of equipment. Over $400,000 more than the year before was spent on rolling stock. Freight car repairs and renewals were especially heavy. Maintenance of equipment outlay was $72,000 less. An increase of $187,486 in other income more than made up for higher charges and taxes amounting to $101,019.

Balance for dividends of $1,916,404, while not the highest in company's history, was better than in 1912 and 1911, and was exceeded by 1910's balance for common by less than $100,000.

Hocking Valley's earnings in last four years have been remarkably uniform. Gross earnings have shown little variation, ranging from $7,172,731 for 1911 to $7,817,640 in the last fiscal year.

Chesapeake & Ohio bought into Hocking Valley in March, 1910, and as of June 30, 1913, held $8,825,800 of the $11,000,000 common stock. Price paid was $120 a share, representing a total investment of $1,059,000. Hocking Valley has no preferred stock. Chesapeake raised money for purchase of the Hocking shares by sale of convertible 4½ per cent bonds, marketed on a 5 per cent basis. To carry the Hocking investment at 5 per cent is costing Chesapeake & Ohio $529,548 a year. In year ended June 30 last Hocking Valley paid dividends totaling 11½ per cent, disbursing regular 7 per cent and 4½ per cent extra. This meant $1,014,967 to Chesapeake & Ohio, or $485,419 in excess of sum necessary to carry the investment for the year.

Since close of last fiscal year, Hocking Valley stock has been put on an 8 per cent basis. Surpluses for dividends, percentage earned on stock and the dividends paid in last four years are as follows:

	Balance	Earnings	Divs.
1913	$1,916,404	17.42	11½
1912	1,839,836	16.64	11½
1911	1,832,731	16.65	4
1910	2,008,736	18.26	4

Average earnings on common stock for a four-year period have been 17.24 per cent. In 1910 Hocking Valley had outstanding preferred stock, which was retired; and upon this, in that year, paid $533,000 dividends. From the above it will be seen that dividend payments have been conservative in proportion to the amount earned on the stock. Even last year's payment of 11½ per cent was almost 6 per cent under the amount earned.

Four fifths of Hocking Valley's tonnage is mine products and it originates less than half of its freight traffic. Running as it does from southern Ohio to Toledo it furnishes a valuable Great Lakes outlet for coal. Chesapeake & Ohio's control of the road has been attacked in the courts ever since it was acquired, and the outcome hinges largely upon the so-called "soft coal trust" suit brought by Attorney-General Wickham under the Sherman law. This case should come up for hearing in the near future.

STONE & WEBSTER MAY BUY ROAD

HARTFORD, Conn.—It is said that Stone & Webster of Boston are considering taking over the trolley system of the Connecticut Company, the name under which the New Haven railroad operates its trolley subsidiaries in this state. About six of the Boston office representatives of the firm have been making their headquarters at a New Haven hotel for a week and have each day been conducted over various trolley lines, usually under the escort of General Manager John K. Pufferford of the Connecticut Company.

PRINCETON TEAM STARTS IN AGAIN AT SCRIMMAGING

Work of the Varsity Football Eleven Has Shown Marked Improvement Under Active Coaching of Ex-Captain Hart

FUMBLING IS FAULT

PRINCETON, N. J.—The Princeton varsity football team is starting today on its last three days' scrimmage practice in final development and the putting on of the finishing touches in preparation for the game with Harvard on Saturday. The results of last week's work were encouraging, but there must still be lots of playing together with the new combination of backs before the team can be called a finished product.

The presence of E. J. Hart, all-American tackle in 1911 and captain of Princeton's championship team for that year, has made all the difference in the world in the daily practice. He has succeeded in putting a dash into the work that is already showing its results in the scrimmage. He came all the way from Seattle to whip the linemen into shape and is to remain till the end of the season. He is playing every afternoon as if trying to make the team himself and is the first man down the field on all punts. Enthusiasm is what the team needs and he is the right man to put it into them. The whole work is now charged with his enthusiasm and the forwards rush with a vim that is in strong contrast with the work of the past. The eleven scrimmaged every day last week alternately against the scrubs and the freshman team. Captain Baker has been practicing his dropkicking steadily and he will probably be called upon for some of this work in the big games.

The Tiger coaches have made still another change in the lineup of the eleven. Law's punting has improved to such a degree that it has warranted his appearance in the backfield. In every practice lately his punts have outdistanced Gile's and average more than 40 yards. To make a berth for him the coaches have shifted Glick to quarterback and J. S. Baker, who has held that position for two seasons, is now a substitute end. This new set of backs seems to work satisfactorily. Glick is as much a success at quarterback as he was at half; he runs the team with good judgment, passes the ball accurately and without fumbling, and has made several good quarterback runs. As the position is new to him he hasn't yet got the knack of rattling off the signals and keeping the speed of the team geared up, but he is improving in this daily. Law's playing has entirely warranted the shift and as it proved successful it will probably remain for the final games.

The guard positions still seem to be in doubt. Changes have been made in nearly every game and the latest puts Semmens and W. Stewart as the favorites. This, however, is still tentative. E. Trenkman still continues to show marked improvement at center, both in his passing and in getting into the play for he has proved himself valuable in intercepting forward passes and recovering fumbles.

Taken as a whole the team is playing more as a unit and with more spirit. In fact the zeal is maybe too excessive for off-side plays are far too frequent and penalties costly. The forward pass has received its due attention and the results are beginning to show up encouragingly. There is more accuracy in the passing and the plays have been so devised that the ball nearly always goes straight to the arms of a man who is free. A majority of the passes are successful and many gains are being made by that play. Fumbling is still in evidence but will probably decrease as soon as the players become accustomed to the new backfield.

HAMILTON FISH MAKES BIG OFFER

Harvard undergraduates are today much pleased with the prospects of a new gymnasium soon being erected at the Cambridge university. The undergraduate committee, which has been busy in getting pledges, has received from Hamilton Fish, '10, captain of the Harvard eleven in 1909, an offer of $5000 as soon as the alumni committee is appointed by President Lowell.

Last year the undergraduates pledged about $30,000 to the building fund, and a good deal of this money has already been turned in to Lee, Higginson & Co., the treasurer. The present freshman class, which has never contributed, will be canvassed soon, and the committee has had promises of large contributions from wealthy graduates as soon as matters are better organized.

AMHERST TRAINS FOR WILLIAMS
AMHERST—The usual football practice was held Monday afternoon and all the men with the exception of Rider and Whitten, were present. All are very enthusiastic over the showing against Dartmouth and although only a light practice was held, the team showed the same speed and fight of the past week.

CLEVELAND RELEASES TWO
CLEVELAND—The release of Outfielder Ryan and John Lelivelt, pinch hitter, to the Toledo American Association club, has been announced by the local American club officials.

HARVARD SQUAD EXCEPTING TWO READY FOR WORK

Mahan and Trumbull Only First String Varsity Football Players Not Ready for Scrimmage

The Harvard varsity football team starts in today on its final three days of scrimmage practice in preparation for the game with Princeton Saturday. With the exception of Mahan and Trumbull, the entire squad is in good condition for hard work. All but these two were at the field Monday. O'Brien and Hitchcock got back in the game after a lay-off of several days. Three other men—Coolidge, Withington and Underwood—were excused from yesterday's practice, but merely to rest.

The practice was somewhat heavier than is customary the Monday following a hard game. After the usual blackboard talk, the squad took to the field, where the second team tried out the defensive formations of the varsity. At the end of half an hour, the varsity was succeeded by the substitutes, the same process being repeated. Both elevens wound up the afternoon with a snappy signal drill.

The coaching staff acquired the services of H. F. Corbett '11, Monday. Mr. Corbett will direct his attention toward the backfield, and at the same time endeavor to improve the team's punting efficiency. He will be assisted by H. B. Sprague '11, while H. B. Gardner '13 has rejoined the staff to aid in the development of the quarters. A new figure also appeared in the person of J. L. Knox '08, a strategic general of much ability.

The final practice of the week will be held on Thursday, the team leaving for New York on the 10 o'clock train on Friday. After spending the night at the Hotel McAlpin, the squad, which with trainers, managers, and coaches, will reach a total of nearly 60 men, will leave for Princeton Saturday morning.

WINSOR FAVORS KEEPING ROVER ON HOCKEY TEAM

That the proposed plan of dropping the rover from hockey teams does not meet with unanimous approval is today evident, following the statement issued by Ralph Winsor, coach of the Harvard varsity and Boston Athletic Association hockey teams. Mr. Winsor is one of the best hockey players and coaches ever developed in this country, and his views are bound to be given much weight. In speaking of the plan, he says:

"It would be all right for the New York teams playing on St. Nicholas rink to drop the rover, but for this seventh player to be dropped in Boston would be a bad move. The playing surface at St. Nicholas rink, where nearly all of the Amateur Hockey League matches are played, is 180 by 90 feet, while the surface at the Arena is 242 by 90 feet. The professional teams of Canada play with six men, but the amateur clubs cling to the seven-man team."

"Will you drop a man if the B. A. A. seven goes to New York this coming winter to play?" Winsor was asked. "No, I would not consent to dropping a player. With six men playing, there might be more spectacular play, but on the larger playing surfaces, seven men would make a better game."

TWO CLUBS RACE FOR FILLEY CUP THIS AFTERNOON

Fall rowing at Harvard comes to a close this afternoon when graded crews representing the Thayer and Eliot clubs race on the Charles river basin at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Individual medals will be presented to the winners of each race. The clubs will, moreover, contend for the possession of the Filley cup in the following manner. The club winning the first crew race is credited with 4 points; the club winning the second crew race is credited with 3 points; the third crew race counts 2 points, and the fourth crew race 1 point. The club having the highest total will win the cup.

Since the system involves several races it is imperative that a crew coming in a good second be credited. Therefore if the winning crew in each race does not win by a full length, its club loses half a point, and the other club gains that half a point.

The first and second crews will race 1½ miles, and the second and third crews will race over a mile course. The first crews will row as follows:

First Thayer—Stroke Storow, 7 Osborne, 6 Howe, 5 Talbot, 4 Choate, 3 Thordike, 2 Baylies, bow Winslow, Cox, Cheney.

First Eliot—Stroke Wilson, 7 Schroeder, 6 Kingsbury, 5 Foster, 4 Fisher, 3 Bacon, 2 Lynn, bow Belmont, Cox, Packard.

MAPES SUCCEEDS BOGUE
NEW YORK—Charles H. Mapes, Columbia '85, was appointed chairman of the university committee on athletics at Columbia Monday by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. Mr. Mapes succeeds Morton G. Bogue, who resigned the place several weeks ago.

WANDERERS BACK IN HOCKEY PLAY
NEW YORK—The Wanderers Hockey Club will be represented this season by a team in the amateur league championship tournament. This decision was reached Monday at a meeting of the club, and President Richard Condon began to draft some of the old players.

YALE EXPECTS TO SEE SOME SHIFTS IN TEAM LINEUP

Head Coach Howard Jones to Give Men Hard Scrimmage in Secret Practice This Week

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Another shake-up is expected in the Yale varsity lineup this afternoon when Coach Howard Jones sends the team through its first hard scrimmage practice of the week. It was secret practice for the team Monday, even undergraduates being excluded for the first time this season, and the coaches plan to continue for the week.

Chief among the many problems that the coaches have to consider is the selection of the quarterback for Yale's big games. While their plans are not disclosed, the opinion is held that they will recall Wheeler and Wilson from the halfback and fullback positions, to which they removed these two former quarters, and will let them fight out their competition in the scrimmage this week.

Several of the regular players returned to the squad Monday, including the veterans Marting and Ainsworth and Loughridge, one of the strongest substitute candidates for tackle.

The coaches are not now inclined to try the scheme of installing Marting as guard and Cooney at center, and these veterans ran through the signal matinee in their former places. Captain Ketcham took his first day off during the season, remaining at recitations. The reappearance of Dunn at fullback Monday was regarded as significant. It is expected that with Wilson removed to quarter, Dunn will prove one of the most valuable of the candidates as plunger for the backfield produced. He has only just been declared eligible.

Pumpelly was in uniform, but simply worked at goal trying. Lilly gave the tackles some earnest pointers; there was no scrimmaging except for the second and third teams.

SIDELINE NOTES

It is not expected that Mahan will play for Harvard against Princeton. This will greatly weaken the Crimson's offense.

Coach Sharpe of Cornell says that he is well pleased with the present rules and that they will probably stand for some years to come.

J. B. Craig, the hurdler, was the star of the University of Michigan eleven in its game with Syracuse Saturday. It was the first game Craig had played this fall and he scored 24 of the 43 points made by his team.

Trainer Mack of the Yale football team timed the punting of Knowles and Gurnsey the other day. He found the average was 7 seconds for the time from which the ball was snapped by the center to when it was caught by the back 45 yards down the field.

PICKUPS

The annual meeting of the American league will take place in Chicago Thursday. It will be interesting to see what is said by the magnates regarding the demands of the Baseball Players Fraternity.

Pitcher Wood of the Boston Americans is a member of the Baseball Players Fraternity, according to President Fultz. Wood has signed his 1914 contract, but did so with the consent of the fraternity.

Pitcher Plank of the World's Champion Athletics is to be tendered a banquet by his fellow-townsmen of Gettysburg, Pa., Nov. 6. Manager Mack and most of the Philadelphia players are expected to be present.

Arthur Devlin, the former New York and Boston third baseman, is now managing the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league. It is expected that he will make many changes in the lineup before the 1914 season starts.

WORCESTER BANQUETS BARRY
WORCESTER, Mass.—This city gave a splendid banquet Monday night to Barry, shortstop of the World's Champion Athletics. Manager Mack, First Baseman McInnis, S. E. Winslow, Harvard, and S. J. Elder, Yale, were guests of honor.

VICTORY FOR NEW YORK GIANTS
MARLIN, Tex.—The New York Giants defeated the Chicago Americans in their world's tour baseball game here Monday by a score of 11 to 1. Teece pitched for the winners while Benz was in the box for the losers.

KANSAS CITY GETS GEIBEL
KANSAS CITY—Catcher Geibel of the Philadelphia American league club has been purchased by the Kansas City American Association team. The sale was announced by John Savage, secretary of the club.

RAY AND VARDON WIN
VANCOUVER, B. C.—Edward Ray and Harry Vardon, British golfers, defeated Duthie and Blinkie, Vancouver professionals, in a 36-hole match Monday by 10 up and 9 to play.

STRONG TEAM IN HARVARD CHESS CLUB THIS YEAR

H. L. Perrin, Boston City Champion, Will Aid in Coaching Crimson Players—Seven of Last Year's Men Available

FACE YALE NOV. 21

With the assurance that H. L. Perrin of the Boston Chess Club will aid in the coaching of the candidates this year, officials of the Harvard Chess Club feel confident that they can produce a team to represent the university this season that will be able to defeat all who face them. Mr. Perrin, who at present holds the chess championship title of Boston, is a former Harvard man, and member of the university team, and his aid will be of great value to the club. Harvard has already played one match this season, that with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, which the Crimson players won by the score of 4½ to 3½.

At present there are about 25 active members in the club, and of this number there are about 18 who are showing good form, and from whom the team will probably be picked to represent the university against Yale the evening of Nov. 21, the night before the Harvard-Yale football game. Seven of these are from last year's team, which gave such a notable account of itself. These men are L. R. Ford, president of the club; B. Winkelman, captain; F. P. Beal, S. S. Seinger, W. B. Harris, J. R. Morton and F. M. Currier. H. W. Sugden, the recently elected secretary of the club, is also a good player, and may find a place among the 10 who will compose the university team.

As yet, the schedule for the year is by no means complete, and with the exception of the match with Yale, the only other contest in which the Harvard team is scheduled to compete is the intercollegiate, which will take place in New York during the December holidays. However, there are several other possibilities on which the officers of the club are working, and it is likely that the club will have some hard playing before the season is over. The men are working regularly almost every afternoon and evening, and sometimes in the morning, and the interest in chess at the university seems to be increasing.

Last year the Harvard team played Colby College, and an effort will be made to arrange another match with the team from Maine this year. Secretary Sugden is working to arrange a match with Brown University, and there is also a strong possibility that a match can be arranged with the Boston Chess Club. This latter contest, if possible, will be played before the Yale match, to get the team in the best of form to meet the New Haven men.

Early next year, after the intercollegiate several tournaments will be arranged among the members of the club and the members of the university. The championship tourney, for the university chess title, will be played, and it is believed that this season a cup or some other form of prize, will go to the winner of this tourney. There will also be a novice tourney, for members of the club who did not make the university team, and, as was the case last year, a cup will probably be given. President Ford also expects to arrange some interclass meets, for the class title.

In order to increase the interest in chess already felt at the university, an effort will be made to secure the services of some of the most prominent chess men in and about Boston to address the club members at their meetings evenings during the season.

The officials of the club are conducting a membership campaign among the students who are interested in chess, and President Ford feels confident that the club membership will be increased in this manner. Mr. Ford has been in the game about three years, and is one of the star men of the club. He believes that a team of four men can be selected for the intercollegiate to represent Harvard that will carry away first honors, and is also confident that Harvard will defeat Yale Nov. 21.

BIG SHIFT IN WILLIAMS LINE

WILLIAMSTOWN—As was expected after the unsatisfactory outcome of last Saturday's contest with Springfield, the first practice held by the Williams varsity football team on Weston field Monday afternoon witnessed a general shake-up, both in the line and backfield. Tomkins was shifted from center to right end; Turner moved up from fullback to center; Payson changed from right halfback to fullback, and Hunnewell shifted from quarterback to right halfback. Jones, a second string half, was sent in at quarterback.

By these changes it is hoped that the line will be strengthened, by reason of the increased weight, and that additional speed may be added to the backfield.

BROWN WINS COLUMBIA TITLE
NEW YORK—Addison Brown, a sophomore, won the Columbia University tennis championship Monday by defeating Alfred L. Bernheim '14 in five hard fought sets by the score of 6-2, 3-6, 6-4, 2-6, 7-5.

PONY POLO IS THRIVING IN INDIA

THE TWENTY-THIRD CAVALRY "A" ATTACKING FOUR CLUBS' GOAL

(Special to the Monitor)

QUETTA, India.—The junior polo tournament came to a successful finish in Quetta in July. The semi-finals resulted in a hotly-contested match between the twenty-third cavalry A, plus one goal, and the Staff College British infantry, plus three goals. The score being even at the end of the last period, goals were widened and the twenty-third cavalry succeeded in hitting a goal.

The other semi-final game, the Royal Irish Fusiliers, plus 3½ goals, versus Four Clubs, plus 4 goals, resulted in a win for the Four Clubs. The final between twenty-third cavalry A and Four Club was also very evenly contested, resulting in six goals all, three of which were put on by the twenty-third cavalry in the third period. After goals were widened the Four Clubs gained a free hit, having forced the twenty-third to hit behind their own line. Captain Gannon, the twenty-third back, met the free hit in the mouth of the goal, and, changing from defense to attack, the twenty-third carried the ball to the Four Clubs' goal. Here after several scrimmages in front of and near the goal, the twenty-third hit the winning goal.

On the conclusion of the game the cups were presented to the winners by Miss Grover, daughter of Maj.-Gen. Sir Malcolm Grover, commanding the fourth (Quetta) division.

FEDERALS PLAN CHICAGO PARK

CHICAGO—James A. Gilmore, owner of the Chicago team in the Federal league, announced Monday that he had completed negotiations for the construction of a new baseball park on the North side, declaring that it would be one of the finest in the country when completed.

Mr. Gilmore and his associates have abandoned all hope of getting Garland Stahl to return to baseball as manager of the Chicago team, and it is now regarded as practically certain that the veteran T. L. Leach of the Chicago Cubs will provide over the destinies of the Chicago Federals in 1914. Richard Hoblitzel of Cincinnati and John Miller of Pittsburgh are also said to have agreed to sign contracts with Federal league owners.

CORNELL ELEVEN GETTING READY FOR MICHIGAN

ITHACA—The showing of the Michigan team in the game against Syracuse on Saturday has impressed the Cornell football coaches and players with the fact that they have a serious proposition on their hands on Saturday and every effort will be bent to getting the Ithacans into form for this important inter-sectional game.

Every member of the varsity team reported to the baseball cage on Alumni field Monday afternoon for signal drill, which constituted the bulk of the work, except O'Hearn. The latter went to his home in Brookline, Mass., during the Harvard game, but he will be back in the lineup very soon, although he is not expected to take part in any football work until the game against the Wolverines.

BIG ENTRY FOR CROSS-COUNTRY

Judging by the way the entries have come in for the first cross-country run of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of New England, to be held under the auspices of the Boston Athletic Association over the Tech course at Brookline Saturday morning, the event promises to be a great success.

George V. Brown of the Back Bay Club announces that entries have been received from Arlington, Stoneham, Lexington, Melrose, Weymouth, Wellesley and Dorchester high schools, with several of the Providence schools to be heard from. Each school is allowed to enter 10 men and start seven, five of which will count in the points for the championship.

TWENTY-THREE AUTOS RACING
PHOENIX, Ariz.—It is expected that the winner of the Los Angeles-Phoenix automobile race will finish here some time today. Twenty-three cars left Los Angeles early Monday morning. Qlin Davis was the first to reach Yuma, 368 miles from the start.

BROWN PREPARES FOR YALE GAME NEXT SATURDAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The Brown football squad began in earnest Monday to prepare for the Yale game which comes Saturday. The coaches put the men through a long signal practice, intended to still further familiarize the men with the signals.

Captain Henry broke into the lineup for the first time in two weeks and he will be in the lineup against Yale. In the practice he was used as tackle and will undoubtedly play during the remainder of the season. Gelb, another varsity tackle who has been out, also reported and may be used, though Henry, Sprague and Bartlett will probably be sent in first.

Captain Henry and Casey put in considerable time drop kicking, but it seems probable that neither man will gain many points for the team in this department this season. The team will get three days of hard practice and will go to Hartford on Friday. It will stay there over night and go to New Haven Saturday morning.

HANOVER GETS CROSS-COUNTRY

At an executive committee meeting of the New England Intercollegiate Athletic Association, held Monday, arrangements were perfected for the annual cross-country run to be held at Hanover, N. H., Saturday, Nov. 15.

It will start at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will be under the immediate supervision of a committee comprising Pres. R. K. Stone, Vice-Pres. J. M. White and advisory committeemen F. H. Briggs of Tech on the part of the N. E. I. C. A. A. and of H. C. McAllister and H. A. Stiles, representing the Dartmouth College A. A.

EIGHT TEAMS ARE TIED
The second day of racing in the six-day cycle race at the Boston-Arena starts at 4 o'clock this afternoon with eight of the 10 teams competing tied at 238 miles. The first day's racing was fast.

Brilliant Flowers Usually Most Inaccessible

Is it merely a fanciful notion that the wild flowers of the most beautiful color and form are those hardest to get at, while the more friendly sort that seek the haunts of mankind are paler in color, if not actually inconspicuous? There seem to be notable exceptions to such a rule seen in many flowers that are regarded as weeds, because of their very courageous investing of farm fields or of lawns. Perhaps in this case the protective color scheme may be disregarded. These flowers perhaps wear the conspicuous dress with impunity, since their hardihood makes it difficult to eradicate them even when one exceedingly wishes to do so.

But of the more delicate blossoms that perhaps better deserve the name of flowers the ones hard to get at are usually the most striking in color. The flowers found in open fields are almost all inconspicuous or colored so as not to attract the eye. The brilliant flowers are the wood flowers and those that grow among rocks or in swamps.

The glowing cardinal flower stands usually at the sedge margin of a brook where one wades ankle deep to get the gay plume in hand. The gentians that bloom in the open field are all shadowy with their striped tube and long green calyxes that make them often quite unnoticeable in the tall grass, for all their blue. This rule of the inaccessible flowers being the most beautiful obtains even to the starchy white of the fruit blooms, for these are comparatively safe in their airy strongholds.

Goldenrod is one of the gay weeds, of which there is plenty. The brilliant and delicate columbine blooms in a rocky eyrie and the beautiful swamp mallow is surrounded by the marsh. The wild rose, to be sure, is a blaze of charming color close at hand, but one must beware her thorn.

Music Teacher for Marash

Miss Bessie M. Hardy, a young woman who has been teaching music in the state normal school at Athens, Ga., has been chosen to establish a music department in the Central Turkey mission at Marash, Asiatic Turkey. She is to be sent out by a woman's board of missions. Her picture shows a strong, smiling face, ready to do and dare.

Women Students Would Build

The women students of the University of Oregon are reported to be planning a woman's building, with the aid of the women's clubs of the state. They hope to raise all needed funds without asking the state itself to intervene. The quarters for the university women that are supplied by the university itself are very much overcrowded and the building is not only a necessity but when it is an accomplished fact it will serve to show the power of achievement on the part of women. Men's buildings and quarters at all great colleges are one of the leading features of the community life, and Oregon hopes to show what good things a building for women, planned and directed by women, will express, thus enabling both men and women to make their due contribution to the social development of the university.

Progress

There is as much difference between the moral planes on which men live and act and feel as between the sea level and the mountain tops; and the man on the heights flushes with quick shame at the bare thought of a thing that the man below does daily and does not mind.—Helen Hunt Jackson.

SPIRITUAL POWER DEMONSTRATED

WRITTEN FOR THE CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR

IN THE first epistle to the Corinthians Paul writes: "My speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power." He here touches on the fact that accounts for the rapid spread of primitive Christianity in the first century, and of Christian Science, its restatement, today. Paul did not approach the brilliant cosmopolitan Greek city with words and arguments. The subtle Greek intellect could have outdone him there. Instead, he met the inhabitants with what no amount of verbiage could explain away—"demonstration of the Spirit and of power." What that demonstration was the record of his missionary journeys tells us—healing the sick and raising the dead—the same demonstration to which Jesus had pointed when he said: "Though ye believe not me, believe the works."

Historical record shows that the early church was built almost wholly on demonstration, that is, on healing, but that the power to heal was lost after about three hundred years. Since then human thought has wandered far afield. It has become imbued with the materialistic concept of man and the universe—so much so that a book was recently written describing imaginatively what would be the result and the protest today were Jesus, as a carpenter in one of our modern cities, to repeat his career of healing and teaching in opposition to prevailing codes. And yet the situation imagined by this author actually exists today in the healing works being done in Christian Science through the better understanding of Jesus' teachings and "in demonstration" as Paul has it, "of the Spirit and of power."

Men sometimes think "Why did not every one in Palestine believe in Jesus' message when they saw his works?" Let the world today answer this, for in Christian Science the works are once more here as proof of the same teaching. And how beautiful a unity between words and works, when the point at issue is the immanence of God! Men have longed for assurance of God's nearness and have prayed earnestly and even in agony, wondering why their prayers remained unanswered. The reason has been that men have unconsciously separated themselves from God in thought by conceiving of themselves as being of a different substance from their creator. They have thought of Him as spiritual and of themselves as material, and by thus denying the unity that in reality exists between God and His creation they have closed their eyes to their proper heritage as children of omnipotent God. It was materiality, "the carnal mind," that kept so many people from Jesus in the first century and the same error of belief blinds many to the blessings of Christian Science today.

Paul coupled the word "power" with the word "Spirit." This spiritual power to heal the sick as Jesus did was rediscovered by Mary Baker Eddy when she saw that, since like produces like and man is the offspring of God, man is, not shall be, spiritual. The five senses would seem to contradict this, but to one who has seen that with changed thoughts come changed outer conditions, sense testimony becoming the servant instead of the dictator of intelligence—to such a one the five senses cease to seem all important. Man is spiritual, his life is to be sought in Spirit or Mind, not in body, and therefore true thoughts, spiritual thoughts of one nature with the Mind of perfect righteousness, which is God, are the open door by which that "power" of which Paul spoke becomes available to men.

The discovery of this unappreciated fund of spiritual strength ever flowing to man from God changes the face of the world for the beginner in Christian Science. Every new demonstration opens up fresh vistas. Years of stumbling amid the haphazard methods of the so-called material world made chance seem to govern, and misfortune to be all too great a part of the lot of men. After this to find that God really is a God at hand, that constant good really is the intended lot of His children, and that there is a rule and a fixed Science by which the power of God can be called on at all times—all this makes the existence of the true Christian the most joyful adventure that could be sought. No wonder the early Christian church grew rapidly when Paul attested to this with "demonstration."

The whole Bible story takes on a new significance to one who has begun this experience of demonstrating his oneness with God. Just because he has the clue to it all, and can begin to repeat, in proportion to his spiritual understanding those experiences of the New Testament that have passed by the name of "miracles," he feels that those Biblical men and women of whom he has read are his brothers and sisters, whose problems were like his own, and whose remedy has now become his. The word "miracle," through lack of understanding the Principle through which the healing works were enacted, has come to bear an entirely false significance. It has been associated with a setting aside of law. But Mrs. Eddy has shown that, on the contrary, the healing of the sick was wrought by Jesus and His disciples through a superior understanding of the fundamental facts of all being, through the operation of spiritual law. "Jesus of Nazareth," she says, "was the most scientific man that ever trod the globe. He plunged beneath the material surface of things and found the spiritual cause" (Science and Health, p. 313).

A great discovery that touches the basis of existence and that is coextensive in its usefulness with humanity itself is bound to change the face of the world. No one can live without God. As the barriers of false theories go down before repeated proofs of the spirituality of man's nature, this new-old teaching will find more and more hearts in which to dwell. The Christ, Christian Science teaches, is not a person, but Truth, and now, as in the days of Jesus, the Christ is the Redeemer of the world.

Postage Stamp Improvement

"There is to be a great improvement in the making of postage stamps. The sheets on which they are printed are to be so perforated along the dividing lines that a stamp may be instantly detached without the aid of scissors, or the likelihood of mutilation by tearing. This new method will also admit of folding stamps together with more ease and accuracy."

But, says the reader, this is not news. From my babyhood have I not detached stamps by that perforated line? Quite so; but it was news in 1848, when a leading literary journal thought the news of enough importance to be included in its scanty miscellany of current interests, where it reads now like a quaint dream come true. Adhesive stamps were only a year old in the United States when this further improvement was effected.

Beauty of the Antique

You may glance around the furniture of the palaces in Europe, and you may gather all these utensils of art or use; and when you have fixed the shape and forms in your mind, I will take you into the museum of Naples, which gathers all the remains of the domestic life of the Romans, and you shall not find a single one of these modern forms of art or beauty or use that was not anticipated there. We have hardly added one single line or sweep of beauty to the antique.—Wendell Phillips.

Part of the Gipsy Quarter in Granada, Spain

(Reproduced by permission.)

View from Generalife, showing San Miguel el Alto, old Moorish wall and gipsy cave-dwellings

THE city of Granada in southernmost Spain is of great interest to the traveler, quite apart from the world-famous Alhambra, which crowns the summit of one of the several hills overlooking the town. For one thing, it was the last stronghold in Spain of the Moors, who first fortified it in the eighth century. For another, much of the old city still remains, its tortuous streets retaining to a great extent their oriental aspect. The city is divided into two sections by the River Darro, the greater part of whose course through the town is underground. On the slopes of a hill to the north is the Albaicin, called by the Moors the Rabad el-bayyazin or quarter of the falconers, which is the oldest part of the city. This district is now mainly inhabited by gypsies, though it was at one time the aristocratic quarter of the town. Passing along the right bank of the Darro one comes by way of the Cuesta del Chapiz, so called from the sixteenth century Casa del Chapiz, to the Camino del Sacro Monte. Above this rises a steep slope, on the top of which is the "ermita" of San Miguel el Alto, from which a splendid view of Granada, the Alhambra and the Sierra Nevada may be obtained, while on a fine day the Cerro de Mulhacen, the highest peak of the Sierra, may also be seen. From San Miguel there stretches on either side the remains of an old Moorish wall, known as La Cerca del Obispo, supposed to have been built about 1425.

On the slopes of this hill there are a number of cuevas, or cave-dwellings, occupied for the most part by gypsies, or gitanos, as they are called in Spain, that strange nomad race, which with its peculiar customs and dialect, has in the course of time spread all over the world. These gitanos are very numerous in Spain and are known to have settled in Granada as far back as 1532. There is a strange attraction about their music and singing, though their dancing is not so interesting. They have other cave-dwellings at Guadix, not far off, and elsewhere in the peninsula, while there is a particularly large colony of them at Seville.

PIERPONT'S SCHOOL READERS

IT seems like being asked to take a long look backward when Pierpont's School Readers are spoken of, yet there must be many who remember them as only the reading book of one's youth is remembered, and who learned from them many a choice bit of prose and verse. The same reflections as to changes in taste that are always aroused by looking into books for the young of a half century since, occur in examining "The American First Class Book" and "The National Reader." Youth has leave to be so much more cheerful nowadays.

"The National Reader" was a superior book in its time, running through successive editions from 1827 to 1854. Its selections were from English and American authors, the former preponderating. Many selections were from reviews, chiefly Blackwood's and the New York Statesman. American poets were scarcely in the field and make a slim showing. Longfellow's "April" appears, the only selection from his pen; there are two poems by Willis, seven or eight by Bryant. Washington Irving is represented by one of the least commendable of his sketches, considering either subject or style.

The Rev. John Pierpont was a Unitarian clergyman, for many years pastor of the Hollis Street church in Boston. His decided views on abolition and temperance were urged in the combative manner that seemed natural to him, and this tendency took voice also in a few stirring pieces of verse, notably "Warren's Address to the American Soldiers," once high in favor as a declamation.

"Stand! the ground's your own, my brave!"

our grandfathers used to thunder from the platform of the village school. Pierpont had considerable vogue as a poet, and there was a gracious aspect of his muse quite as marked as the martial one mentioned. This was shown in the very tender poem, "My Child," and in the poem containing this address to his mother:

"She led me first to God.
Her words and prayers were my young spirit's dew;
For when she used to leave
The fireside every eve,
I knew it was for prayer that she withdrew."

"That dew that blessed my youth,—
Her holy love, her truth,
Her spirit of devotion, and the tears
That she could not suppress,— Hath never ceased to bless
My soul, nor will it through eternal years."

LESSON OF HAMPTON AND TUSKEGEE

THAT Hampton and Tuskegee, the well-known American schools for negroes, are valuable not merely as excellent schools for the negro race, but for their important contribution to the present vocational educational movement, is the declaration of the United States bureau of education. In a pamphlet, just distributed by the bureau, tribute is paid to the work of Hampton Institute and particularly General Armstrong, its founder, who is looked upon by educators as a pioneer in the field of practical education.

"General Armstrong possessed to a remarkable degree the gift of educational prophecy," asserts Professor Peabody in the introduction to the pamphlet. "He foresaw and foretold with extraordinary precision the tendencies and transitions which within the last 25 years have practically revolutionized the principles of education. The training of the hand and eye as well as of the mind, the moral effect of technical skill, the conception of labor as a moral force, the test of education in efficiency, and the vanity of education without discipline in thrift, self-help, love of work, and willingness to sacrifice—all these familiar maxims of modern vocational training were set forth by him with all the assurance of a social prophet."

The pamphlet includes a brief sketch about General Armstrong and a collection of pithy utterances on aims and methods of education. It is felt that General Armstrong's theory and proof of practical education have proved to be right, not merely for the races for which they were immediately intended, but for boys and girls everywhere, since they represent a successful attempt to work out what is regarded as one of the most momentous tasks of the time—that of formulating an education that shall be an effective force for training productive, efficient members of society.

Wearing the Kossuth Hat

Some one who writes to the New York Sun thinks he knows when and how the tall "plug hat" was introduced into the United States. It was called the Kossuth hat, he says, because the famous Hungarian patriot introduced it into New York, more than 60 years ago. This writer says that his parents were making a visit to New York from their home in Ohio and brought back to the stay-at-home lad one of the amazing new hats that were the vogue in the big city. He took his boy friends into his room one by one and showed them the wonderful thing. They dared him to wear it. He ventured to school in it and the hat never got home again. He wonders if any other boy ever wore or tried to wear a Kossuth hat.

Grammar in Rhyme

Grammar in rhyme is what St. Nicholas calls the following bit of verse, which was reprinted lately from the July number, 1875, at the request of a reader:

Three little words you often see:
The Article, a, an, and the.

A Noun's the name of anything.
As school, or garden, hoop, or swing.

An Adjective describes the Noun,
As great, small, pretty, white, or brown.

In place of Nouns the Pronouns stand,
As he or she, your arm, my hand.

Verbs tell something to be done—
To read, count, laugh, sing, jump, or run.

How things are done the Adverbs tell,
As slowly, quickly, ill, or well.

Conjunctions join the words together,
As men and women, wind or weather.

The Preposition stands before
A Noun, as in or through the door.

The Interjection shows surprise,
As "Oh! how pretty!"—"Ah! how wise."

Regulation, Whether of Competition or Monopoly

DURING the last presidential campaign the issue, so far as it arose from diverse governmental theories held by Messrs. Wilson and Roosevelt, was essentially one of regulated competition vs. regulated monopoly. To a lesser degree, but none the less fundamentally, the parties led by these men differed in the same way. Since Mr. Wilson has been President he has consistently adhered to his separatist point of view, and rumor has it that in his message to Congress he intends to stand sponsor for federal anti-trust legislation analogous to that which he carried through when Governor of New Jersey. That he may deal descriptively with conditions as he sees them, from the vantage of access to the innermost secrets of government, is likely; but it is difficult to reconcile the rumor of immediate, positive, constructive recommendations by the President with the address just made by the commissioner in charge of the bureau of corporations in which the bureau chief states that any action which the administration may take will be posited on a thorough investigation, especially when this investigation is not yet terminated and is not likely to be when Congress opens in regular session.

That such an investigation might well precede any further congressional action, no person aware of the gravity of the situation which the nation faces would think of disputing. The pecuniary and moral values that enter into the dispute between the champions of competition and those of monopoly are of a kind and volume that deserve no action but what is based on knowledge. Honest, unprejudiced and technically competent investigators should have no difficulty in finding abundant data for a judgment, pro or con, on the results of an era of assertive and often conquering monopoly through which the nation has been passing, and with which it has been endeavoring to deal through the variously interpreted Sherman law. Facts that a decade ago were concealed are now accessible.

Whatever path may be finally chosen we may safely conclude that business will have the state as companion on its way. Whether the decision is to favor monopoly, or competition in larger units, the outcome will be regulation. From that stage of the evolutionary process there is to be no retreat; and this because the social whole, more than ever, has to be on guard to save its wholeness.

Selected Citizens of a Republic

THERE have been innumerable resolutions passed by conferences, associations, assemblies and circles of civic reformers wearing many labels, all favoring stricter selection of settlers who in due time may become citizens of the United States. But Massachusetts has had the matter before it recently in a somewhat more concrete form, to be sure not one determining the outcome of an election, but nevertheless one that will lead to analysis of the returns to see what the precise effect of the plea for restriction has been in towns and cities with a high percentage of artisans who were, or whose parents were, born abroad.

The frequency with which the higher grade periodicals of the United States are admitting to their pages serious discussion of the problem of alien assimilation is a wholesome sign of contemporary life. Nowhere, for instance, is there a more compact historical review of the course of recent restrictive legislation and its partial defeat by administrative vetoes and edicts than in the article which Prescott F. Hall has written for the current Journal of Political Economy. Mr. Hall does well to call attention to the fact that of the six leading books dealing with immigration issued during the past five years, five favor further restriction.

It is with the untoward effects upon American life of the importation of raw human material for the factories of the nation that Prof. E. A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin writes in the November Century. Never have the displacements, uprootings and overturnings, not only of abode but of living ideals, caused by the successive incursions of immigrants with progressively lower social ideals, been more faithfully set forth than in this sociologist's narrative. Church, state, school, family and labor organization have been undermined by the results of a humanitarian motive operated for the special benefit of makers of goods and of politicians. The nation's idealism has not proven strong enough to bring corrective restriction; it may well come ultimately from some impulse that is merely economic or utilitarian.

An Argument for Waterways

IT HAS become a truism in economics that to be altogether successful the industrial combination must have, to a greater or less extent, control of raw material and control of the means of gathering it and of distributing its finished product. Raw material is practically useless unless it can be delivered to the mill, the smelter, the refinery or the warehouse. It is of small value, or no value relatively, until it is made available for manufacture and trade, and it cannot be made available for either without transportation. Hence, assuming the raw material as a matter of course, and always taking due cognizance of the importance of labor, transportation must be regarded as an essential factor in modern industry. For proof of this it is only necessary to look to the oil, steel, meat, sugar and numerous other interests that in our time have become formidable through combination. In every instance a close alliance with transportation systems has been absolutely necessary to success.

Thoughtful observers of the industrial situation in the United States have long deplored conditions which permitted the use of the lines of rail transportation—the present arteries of the nation's commerce—for the furtherance of private ends, no matter how legitimate or how worthy these ends might appear to be. It has been established, not once but a thousand times, that the concern having control of transportation could cripple its rivals or competitors with ease. Therefore was created the interstate commerce commission, and therefore have been enacted numerous laws to prevent the association of industries with transportation companies. More than this, the seeming impossibility of preventing this association altogether, through identification of interests in the commercial and industrial world, has led these thoughtful observers to urge upon state and nation, as a certain means of relief from industrial monopoly, the development of water highways.

A great corporation to gather and sell oysters was organized not long ago. Last week, in the United States court in Brooklyn, N. Y., receivers were appointed for the concern. It had been capitalized for $4,500,000, but in the complaint leading to the receivership it was alleged that the concern had "met with heavy losses in its endeavor to get control of the oyster industry of the Atlantic coast." This matter is not referred to here with the view of recording a failure. The corporation may under reorganization be placed upon a better footing than ever. What the incident serves to emphasize, however, is the difficulty of controlling any industry open to free competition through the assistance of natural means of transportation. The ocean, the bays, the coves, the estuaries have been and are open to anybody, any firm, company or corporation that chooses to engage in the oyster trade. Under such conditions monopoly such as may be established, such as has been established, through the aid of rail lines is impossible. Waterway development will make it as difficult to control the fruits of the earth in the future as it is now to control the fruits of the ocean.

Game Preserves in Massa- chusetts

COOPERATION between commonwealth and individual property-owner enters largely and praiseworthy into the method adopted by the fish and game commission of Massachusetts for the enforcement of the game preservation law enacted by the Legislature of 1911. The course being pursued in behalf of the state, in other words, is so rational as to be exceptional even in a quarter of the country and in a period rapidly departing from administrative procedure having nothing but tradition to recommend it. Here, if the reader will take the trouble to inform himself, may be found a pleasing and a highly encouraging symptom of the tendency that is making for closer contact between government and the governed. To begin with, the idea of private ownership in the fowls of the air and the fish of the waters, as a mere consequence of the ownership of land, is completely upset. The law holds that the private owner does not have the right to the wild things on his land, except as the laws of the state permit, nor has any private individual a right, except as the law permits, to enter upon any land, public or private, in the absence of "posting," and assume that he may destroy wild life at his pleasure. For finer definitions one must go to the courts; but the general principle that the wild life of the state belongs to the state, to be disposed of at the pleasure of the state only, seems to be laid down here.

Yet, not in an offensively arbitrary way. The state is willing and ready to enter into agreements with the private owner with the view of conserving wild life. As the Monitor's news article upon the law and its interpretation and enforcement has shown, the commonwealth of Massachusetts is making contracts with private owners under the terms of which both the state and the individual are benefited. The commission is taking under its control large areas of private property for purposes of game preservation. Each owner who accepts the offer of the commission agrees to "post" his land with notices and to establish a closed season on hunting and shooting for a period of from one to five years, and on its part the state agrees "to care for all the wild life on such land, to establish feeding grounds and nesting grounds where necessary, and to stock it with new birds." As a consequence of this mutually beneficial arrangement, we are told, "thousands of acres of what may be called volunteer game reservations are being added to the state preserves, while negotiations for the 'posting' of many thousands of acres more are under way."

This is an excellent method of doing business. It brings the state and the land owner into partnership. It makes for the satisfying understanding that the commonwealth and the private land owner and the public have no interests in the game of the state that are not common.

AN ARTICLE in the Household department of the Monitor directing attention to the numerous ways in which a handy man in the house can make himself useful is likely to cause many male readers of this newspaper to think, and not for the first time, of the many, many opportunities they are losing of showing the rest of the family what they might do if they only had learned early in life how to do it. As the article in question very properly points out, there is practically no end to the things the handy man in the house can turn his hand to, as there is practically no end to the things done in the house for the doing of which the unhandy man must pay out cash. The average man is unhandy about the house and when he is told that such and such a thing needs to be repaired, or that such and such a thing needs to be done, he says, "Very well, have it done and I'll pay for it," when he would please everybody else in the house a great deal more if only he might say, "All right, I'll get at that this evening."

It is a remarkable fact, and none the less remarkable because usually overlooked by students of human nature, that the average man would give almost anything if he were handy about the house. If he might only undertake and perform one each of the different jobs that must now go to some outsider, he feels that he would have a standing in the family thenceforth that could be attained in no other way. It would not be necessary for him actually to do the work himself after that. He would come to be recognized not only in his own home but throughout the neighborhood as a handy man, and be held up as a model by all wives to all husbands.

But as matters stand, he must forego the satisfaction of this laudable ambition. He must be content to learn of the things that it is necessary somebody else shall do, to give his consent to the doing of them, and to pay the bill. Beyond this he realizes his entire uselessness about the house and he enjoys nothing more than getting away in the morning before he hears the hum of honest industry in which, were he a handy man, he might himself claim a share of the credit.

Things the Handy Man Can Do

Why English Teaching Falls Short in America

THE disparity between the excellent English spoken by Asiatics for whom the language of Milton and Shakespeare is an acquired possession and the talk of the average undergraduate in American colleges and universities is noticeable whenever one of the former group speaks to the latter. Analysis of the reasons which account for the difference does not proceed far before it is apparent that the blame rests not upon the college or university, mainly, but upon forces that shape the pre-academic stage of the American lad's career. He comes to the study of English, as literature, with habits of speech originating and fixed while he has been growing up in the home, playing in the streets or in the fields, and consorting with adults and juveniles for whom the niceties of grammar, rhetoric and style have no meaning.

Not so does the Hindu of Calcutta or the Japanese of Tokio gain his first ideals of English. He hears it well spoken sooner than he hears it otherwise. His first models in prose and verse are not the hodge-podge of occidental urban dailies but the winnowed classics of the alien tongue which he has deliberately set about mastering. His teacher is not compelled to undo before he can begin to do, as is the case so often with the American teacher. From the very first stage of instruction to the last the alien student of English has the advantage over many who are its inheritors, because he derives from purer sources.

This being so, it is well to keep the fact in one's thought when disposed to find fault with the results of teaching of English in American schools and colleges. The formal educator is not the person who fixes juvenile standards. Parents, playmates and journalists all have a prior chance. Much of the teacher's work is to counteract the effect of theirs. Until he has done this he cannot proceed.

Nevertheless, it is true that the American university or college should train more masters of spoken and written English than now graduate from academic halls. Whether the test be that of the business letter or an essay in literary criticism, a poem or the platform speech, the product of the period does not seem to be rightly proportioned to the vast apparatus and teaching force now busy at work.

Harvard, it should be noted, aware of this disparity and the criticism it calls forth, has set in operation a special investigation of the matter, to ascertain her precise responsibility. Her affirmed intention to make the use of good English count for more in rating her students' rank than it has counted during the past generation must be encouraging to all humanists.

Motor Cars Contribute to Railroad Business

WITNESSING the unceasing procession of motor cars along the main roads, or reading the colossal totals of the passengers they carry, one might easily reach the conclusion that they had set up a rivalry to the railroads and had diverted travel to an extent that would be perceptible in statistics if not in revenue. The facts are quite different. There is a well-recognized law, even if not quite definitely worked out, that the addition of new means of transporting people from place to place operates to aid rather than to diminish travel by the older method. It is not perceptible, for example, that the street cars of the towns are less crowded because of the use of the motors by the men who live in the suburbs and go to and from business in them. The easier the means of travel and the more generously supplied, the greater seems to be the disposition to travel.

But the automobile has gone further, if the testimony of railroad men is to be accepted; it has actually created new business for the railroads. In the Chicago correspondence of the Wall Street Journal Vice-President Garrett of the Northwestern railroad is quoted as saying that automobile platforms have been built at 100 of that company's passenger stations and that others will be built as the demand appears. The automobiles have carried thousands of people into the country and they have been so attracted by country life that they have moved to the farms. The increase of country population resulting from this movement and not confined to the people who ride in the motors, brings added business to the railroads.

If it be true of the western roads that they are being helped by the finding of country homes by city dwellers, it must be true in larger degree in New England. The motor cars have revealed the charms of the country to city people to an extent that has already brought practical results in permanent finding of homes at considerable distances from the big towns. New Englanders are beginning to know New England and to find that it offers irresistible attractions, not alone for the day's or the week's tour but for residence. Evidence of the substantial result is supplied in the passing of old farms to new owners, the rebuilding of the farm house or its supplanting with a modern country home; and the example the motor owners set is being followed by the less wealthy, who are led along the same road to a better way of living than the city gives. The railroads are the incidental gainers.

Their testimony to the growth of their business from this source is cheering in its further establishment of the fact that the workers in the towns are finding the country the most satisfactory abode.

A VERY considerable shrinkage in the state revenues of New Jersey is attributed in some quarters to the operation of former Governor (now President) Wilson's famous "Seven Sisters" anti-corporation laws, it being alleged that many large concerns were driven from New Jersey by these enactments, thus reducing the state's sources of income. Evidently, the only correction lies in the enactment by all the states of uniformly equitable corporation laws. Then large concerns will find it more profitable to pay just taxes than to move.

BY MAKING use of the parcel post, thus sending skins directly to the States and avoiding middleman charges, the Eskimos are getting greatly increased prices for their furs. In this respect, it might be said, the Eskimo, as compared with some white producers to the south, is an advanced progressive.

THERE is no immediate cause for alarm in Greenland on the ground of congestion. The largest settlement there—Sydproven—has a population of 766, while the smallest—Skanson—has only forty-six inhabitants. And yet Greenland is not advertising for immigrants.
